CHARRED BODIES REMOVED FROM BURNING FOREST

C. C. Workers and Others Trapped in Shoshone Region Near Cody

OTHERS MAY BE DEAD Horrible Scene Described By Tragedy Survivor

There are no Pickaway county Civilian Conservation Corps youths in the Cody, Wyo., area as far as local relief officials know. Dispatches from the scene of the forest fire say that nearly all victims were enrollees from Texas. The local relief office does not, however, have a complete list of assignments of county youths.

CODY, Wyo., Aug. 23—(UP)—Burned men, some dead, others dying or badly seared, were carried here on litters today, casualties in a fire that has raged three days in the Shoshone national forest.

There were 12 charred bodies in the morgue, lying beside the bodies of two persons killed in week-end accidents. More than 40 burned men were in the three Cody hospitals. Two or three were near death.

The 12th body, brought in from the forest this morning, was burned until even the bones were black beneath the skin.

Others May Be Dead It was feared that others were dead. Most of the victims arrived here lashed to the backs of burros that were led to safety through (Continued on Page Eight)

AUTO USED FOR ABDUCTION GOES BACK TO AKRON

The sheriff's department reported no new developments Monday in the abduction case of George R. Hoffman, Akron, whose car was found abandoned last Friday night in W. High street.

Hoffman obtained his auto Sunday morning. He was abducted on an Akron street, forced to ride to Columbus with three men and robbed of $58 during the trip.

Another abduction was staged by three youthful bandits in Columbus early Sunday. A filling station attendant was taken to Loudenville, 65 miles north of Columbus, then released.

Carl Faust, 1346 North Fifth street, victim of the abduction, was robbed of $30.

Labor Asked to Form Third Party for 1938

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(UP)—The American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were asked today to unite and form a third political party for the 1938 congressional elections.

The call was made by the National Executive Committee of the Social Democratic Federation, an organization of right wing socialists, who claim to speak for members in 19 states.

"The session of congress just concluded has served to emphasize that there is no power upon which organized labor can depend except itself," the committee said.

The statement charged that in "scuttling vital legislative proposals designed to promote the interests of the population" congress acted "in defiance of the will of the people clearly expressed in the last election."

The refusal of the Democrats in congress, the committee said, with the support of the Republicans, to cope with the essential economic, political and constitutional problems had emphasized "the need for a fundamental political realignment."

"Back to the falsehoods and illusory fleshpots of Coolidge and Hoover was the definite tendency shown by the Democratic party, with the silent approbation of the Republicans," the committee said.

"This is the opportune moment for launching a party dominated, owned and controlled by the people, by all those who work for a living."

Mayor Jasper McLevy of Bridgeport, Conn., presided at a meeting of the executive committee yesterday. Leo Meltzer of Boston was elected national secretary and plans were made to establish national headquarters in Washington.

SEN. HOLT SEES SPLIT BETWEEN LEWIS AND F. D. R.

AKRON, Aug. 23—(UP)—Sen. Rush D. Holt of West Virginia predicted here last night that there would be "a breach between President Roosevelt and John L. Lewis before 1940."

Sen. Holt addressing a group of non-unionists, asserted that the political power of Lewis, leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, was waning.

"I am sure the political power of which Mr. Lewis boasts so much is not evidence in Washington today as it was a few months ago," the youthful senator said.

"The American workingman desires prosperity. He wants a job. He does not want a revolution."

Sen. Holt credited Gov. Martin L. Davey of Ohio with having gained widespread approval by calling out the national guard during the recent steel strike. He said he believed Gov. Davey would be backed by a contingent of southern Democrats for the presidential nomination because of his action during the strike.

The senator spoke here at the invitation of an independent rubber workers' organization.

SEIZURE OF DRUG SENDS TRIO INTO FEDERAL COURTS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—(UP)—Three persons were to be arraigned here today before U. S. Commissioner Robert Newlon on narcotics charges growing out of the seizure of several thousand dollars worth of heroin.

Those arrested by federal officers in a raid on a Columbus hotel Saturday were Dr. Roy Boynton, 56, of Newton, Mass., Fred Sheehy, 42, of Columbus, and Sheehy's divorced wife, Eva, 41, of North Lewisburg, O.

Officers making the arrest were Arth D. Stevenson, federal narcotic agent; Dick Alkire and Whitney Brown, of the U. S. revenue department; Frank Dorsey, investigator for the Ohio State Medical Board, and D. A. Perkins, federal building custodian.

Officers said Sheehy came here in July from Miami, Fla.

800 REFUGEES ARRIVE MANILA, Aug. 23—(UP)—The Dollar liner, President Hoover arrived today with the second contingent of American refugees from Shanghai. More than 800 sought refuge in homes of local Americans. Some were taken by special train to Baguio.

There were 12 charred bodies in the morgue, lying beside the bodies of two persons killed in week-end accidents. More than 40 burned men were in the three Cody hospitals. Two or three were near death.

OHIO TO SUFFER FROM REDUCTION IN W. P. A. FUNDS

Scioto-Sandusky Project Survey Approved by Congressmen

LAST SESSION STUDIED Continuation of C. C. C. to Give 6,840 Work

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(UP)—The departing congress left in its wake today a series of legislative accomplishments of direct and vital effect on Ohio.

But the adjournment gavel also left hanging several measures which Ohio senators and representatives had sought unsuccessfully to transform into law.

Of prime importance to the Buckeye state were provisions made by congress for dealing with the unemployed problem.

The new $1,500,000,000 relief bill, intended to carry the government through the fiscal year ending next July 1, will provide funds for employing an average of 92,500 Works Progress Administration employees.

W. P. A. Slash Hurts Ohio, along with all other states, will feel the pinch of government cost-cutting in the WPA program.

The 1938 fiscal year expenditures in Ohio, it is estimated, will range between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 compared with the $138,000,000 spent during the calendar year 1936. The average 1938 employment will represent a reduction of about 31,600 from WPA rolls as of last May.

The three-year extension of the Civilian Conservation Corps will insure employment of approximately 6480 young men and World War veterans in 40 Ohio camps, officials said. Fifteen of the camps have been assigned to soil erosion prevention, eight to drainage work, seven to development and improvement of state forests, four to national forests and six to state park areas.

BOND OPPOSED PORT HENRY, N. Y., Aug. 23—(UP)—District Attorney Thomas W. McDonald, of Essex county, declared today he would vigorously oppose granting of bail to John Montague, Hollywood mystery golfer, when he is arraigned tomorrow on a seven-year-old robbery charge.

INTERFERENCE HIT GENEVA, Aug. 23—(UP)—Spain delivered a note to the League of Nations today denouncing interference with Spanish shipping. It was understood the note complained against interference with Spanish government shipping by "unknown submarines" and asked the council to deal with the matter at its meeting on Sept. 10.

TRUCK DAMAGES BRIDGE One wheel of a truck of the Hartman Cartage Co., Columbus, went through the floor of a bridge on the Orient-Harrisburg road early Monday. Lawrence Young, Columbus, was the driver. The truck was loaded with steel.

Five Wrecks Keep Police, Sheriff Busy

One Arrest Results From Series of Accidents During Week-End

Five automobile accidents in which no one was seriously injured, but one arrest was made, were investigated by the sheriff's department and the city police Saturday and Sunday.

Finley Nickell, 28, of Beaver, O., Route 3, was arrested by police at 7 p. m. Saturday. Their report says he failed to stop after his auto struck the parked car of E. B. Goldsberry, S. Scioto street. Goldsberry's auto was parked in front of his home. Nickell was arrested on Huston street.

Autos driven by LeRoy Weisfoot, Briggsdale, O., and Harley Stant, Circleville, Route 3, collided at 8:15 p. m. Saturday at Main and Pickaway streets. The police report says Weisfoot was going west on Main street while Stant was going eastward and making a turn into N. Pickaway street.

The rear end of the auto of Frank Gearhart, 626 N. Court street, was slightly damaged Sunday evening when it was struck by an auto driven by Leo Miller, Jackson, O. Officers said the mishap occurred as Gearhart was turning off Court street into the Ringgold pike.

Cars driven by R. I. Conner, Huntington, W. Va., and Foster Pritchard, Laureville, Route 3, were involved in a collision on Route 164 about six miles south of Circleville at 8 p. m. Saturday. The sheriff's department reported Pritchard suffered cuts and bruises.

Police said cars driven by Edgar Stevens and L. F. Stout, addresses not learned, were involved in a collision Sunday on S. Washington street.

ACCIDENTS KILL 12 THROUGH OHIO DURING WEEK-END

BY UNITED PRESS Accidents took the lives of at least 12 persons in Ohio over the week-end.

Leona Edwards, 20, of near Sunbury, died in a Columbus hospital of a crushed chest, fractured skull and broken neck when her automobile went into a ditch four miles south of Galena and caught fire. Cloy Smith of Galena, who was riding with her, received minor injuries.

Miss Edwards was said to have become excited when the car swerved and to have stepped on the accelerator.

Mrs. Tessa Wheeland, 39, of near Sunbury, and Kendall Urray, 14, of Columbus, were injured seriously in an automobile-truck collision near Westerville in which Le Roy Wheeland, 40, her husband, and Mrs. E. E. Meyers, 62 Lithopolis, were killed.

P. C. Archer, 33, was killed at Lorain when his car skidded and struck a tree.

Frank Mayer, 28, was drowned at Cleveland when he fell into Lake Erie while attempting to board a launch.

Robert Sprague, 20, was crushed to death when struck by an automobile at Shelby.

At Cleveland, Mathew O'Hara, 38; Frank Walker, 26, and Miss Mary Mazek, 29, were killed in traffic accidents.

Mrs. Eugene Sarchi, 54, of New York, and Reed Conger, 23, of Washington, Pa., were killed in separate motor accidents near Newark.

Thomas Bailey, 11, of Alliance, was killed when struck by an automobile while crossing a street. His brother, Joseph, 15, was hurt.

Chicago Nurse Slain With Brick

VICTIM of a killer who fled down the fire escape, the name of Miss Anna Kuchta has been added to a long list of such slayings that have terrorized the fringes of Chicago's Loop and South Side for a year. Miss Kuchta, a 19-year-old student nurse, was found dead, her skull crushed with a paving brick, in her second-floor room at the Chicago hospital on the South Side.

100 Suspects Held In Chicago Crimes

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—(UP)—Attacks on four more women and a negro's attempt to date a pretty 19-year-old national beauty contest winner today spurred Chicago's 6,000 police in their search for the ape-like man who murdered and assaulted Anna Kuchta, 19, a student nurse.

Miss Florence Swanson, night superintendent of nurses at Jefferson Park hospital, was slashed by a man who invaded her room while she slept.

Mrs. Edith Reuter, 22, told police she was seized while walking and attacked by two men in an automobile.

Mrs. Ruby Stoeckel, 23, reported she was attacked by two men who forced her to accompany them in an automobile.

Mrs. Anna Hollender, 50, a domestic, was beaten by a negro who tried to attack her on a lonely street.

Among more than 100 suspects rounded up by police was a huge negro accused of passing a mash note of Michaeline Deleau, 19, proclaimed "Miss America" in a Mardi Gras contest at New Orleans three years ago.

Police notified Miss Deleau, appearing as "Miss America" at a downtown "art museum," notified police when a negro handed her a note which read:

"I saw you this afternoon. I want to see you again. Please let me see you. I will give you anything you want if I can see you. Just say yes and call this number tonight at 1 o'clock. Drexel 7587. Earl."

Miss Deleau agreed to meet the masquerader half a block from Central police station. She accompanied police to the scene and pointed out a negro who gave her name as Ovell Jones, 28. Police said he confessed authorship of the mash note. He was held to be viewed by other attack victims.

Mrs. Hollender said she was accosted by a negro near her home. She said she offered him her money but he answered, "I want a woman." He beat her with his (Continued on Page Eight)

International Settlement Scene of Disaster as Airplanes Fight

MANY CORPSES BURIED

U. S. Navy Storeroom Hit By Explosive

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23—(UP)—Two airplane bombs crashed into the heart of the international settlement, spreading death and panic.

One plunged into a teeming crowd in the Nanking road. The other landed on a United States navy storehouse.

Municipal council authorities said officially that 300 were killed and 500 wounded in the Nanking road bombing. Many corpses were still buried in debris from two department stores hit by bomb fragments, and wounded were dying each hour.

Among the wounded were two Americans—Anthony Billingham, New York Times correspondent, of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Blanche Tenney, born here. Billingham's wounds were most serious and there was fear for his life.

The bomb which struck the navy storehouse, occupied also by the American owned Commercial Express company, plunged through the three floors of the building without exploding and started a small fire that was soon put out.

Fragments Retrieved Though the bomb did not explode, and wounded no one, it was broken when it landed. U. S. navy authorities gathered fragments from it in hope they could identify its source.

The bomb struck only a few yards from the American consulate general and next door to the temporary British consulate general.

Earlier in the day three Japanese airplanes had bombed Chinese lines dangerously near the United States cruiser Augusta, anchored in the river, and had flown over the cruiser in maneuvering.

Only a few hours before the bombs struck, a regatta mass was celebrated for Frederick J. Falgout, young U. S. navy first class seaman, killed when a shell struck the Augusta Friday.

Foreign banks had reopened for "normal" business this morning, and had been operating just three hours after a week's suspension when the bombs dropped.

The Nanking road bomb fell between the big Wingon and Sincere department stores. Billingham was in the Wingon store and was struck by fragments that penetrated an elevator in which he was standing. His arm was cut so badly that it was believed an artery was severed. He suffered also two chest wounds. The elevator dropped sharply to the ground floor from the second floor when the bomb hit. To that fact Billingham may owe his life. Hallett Abend, another New York Times correspondent, had been waiting outside for Billingham beside their car. He found Billingham, picked him up and taking him to the country hospital. There he was taken at once to the operating room. But he had lost so much blood, and suffered such shock, that an operation was deferred until tonight.

The two Americans were not the only foreign casualties. Claus Eckert, 16, German, son (Continued on Page Eight)

During the electric storm Saturday the Ashville Grain Company elevator was struck by lightning and what is known as the meter box was set on fire and a small motor damaged.

Had no one been present to extinguish the flame at the box, the elevator would have been destroyed. It will be recalled by many that this elevator was completely burned in 1901, the fire starting from an overheated metal box in the upper part of the structure.

School Opens Sept. 7

Our teachers and the "kiddies" are now counting the days that just "old school", to some of them, is starting in again. With but few exceptions the teaching staff is composed of about the same teachers. The most noticeable changes about the school will be the absence of last year's senior class members and a lot of little tots at school for their first year. The first day of school this year, will be on Tuesday, September 7, the one following Labor Day and two weeks from tomorrow.

Kaubers Travel

Al Kauber, our high school coach, spent much of his vacation time in just going around places and seeing things. He, with the wife and babe, first paid his brother a visit at Lakeside and then on to Watertown, Wis., to pay a visit to Mrs. Kauber's parents. Then down the Mississippi valley to Foley, Ala., where they visited Mr. Kauber's parents. Since June 1, the Kaubers have visited and sight-seen many places of interest and drove some 3000 miles. If Mr. Kauber is inclined to do it, he can give to his class many interesting five-minute talks about the places of interest he visited.

Carpenters Busy

Willard Barch and carpenter force are busy on the Dr. Schiff office building "and doing as well as can be expected" as the doctors tell you when they have no information to hand out. These workers, so Mr. Barch says, have all the work, and more, than they can do this season. Clarence Berry, N. Long street, is building an addition to his dwelling and the Barch carpenters will do this work.

Leffler Buys House

P. H. Leffler, Circleville, has purchased from James R. Hoover, his cottage dwelling on N. Long street and will move there about October 1. The price has not been named. The report that Dan Boone has purchased the Pearce dwelling, now occupied by Desmer Spangler and family, is not true, because Dan told us so himself. But this important event, which and when it does happen, is to be a "big time day" (or maybe night) for the boys about town. They are having their near regular meetings and making plans to best fit the occasion. But Dan is a good sport and we are guessing he will take kindly anything the boys are planning to hand him.

To Go to Springs

Adolph Hickman, who has been badly afflicted with arthritis and scarcely able to walk about, is to go to the Virginia Hot Springs for treatment. The Martins, father and son, close relatives of Mr. Hickman, came here the latter part of the week from Hot Springs and they will take Adolph with them for treatment. They say hundreds come there for treatment and are much benefitted.

Actress' Strange Death Brings Coroner's Probe

Los Angeles, Aug. 23.—(UP)—A coroner's autopsy was ordered today on the body of pretty Jane Weir, motion picture actress, on request of her physician who said he was puzzled and would not sign a death certificate.

The 21-year-old former society girl died suddenly Saturday in Good Samaritan hospital. She had been apparently making a quick recovery from an appendicitis operation two weeks ago when she began sinking. A blood transfusion failed to rally her.

Dr. N. G. Henry, who attended her, ordered an autopsy immediately. This was performed Saturday by Dr. A. H. Zeller. It did not find the cause of death, so Dr. Henry submitted the case to Coroner Frank Nance of Los Angeles county.

The coroner instructed Dr. Frank Webb, of his official staff, to perform a more thorough autopsy today. Dr. Henry said the case was mysterious, but police had not made any investigation.

Career Promising

Miss Weir was a stunning blonde, and was acknowledged to be one of Hollywood's most promising young actresses. Paramount studio placed her under contract six months ago and was planning to star her in a picture soon.

She attended high school in Los Angeles and was noticed by film scouts when she made her society debut. She was born in Davenport, Ia., and came here 10 years ago.

One of her half-sisters, Mary Logan Vanderbilt Brett, is a former wife of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr. Another is Annabelle Weir. Both live in the East. The actress by the southern route through Arizona-Texas encountered some extremely hot weather, but the natives there said it was rather cool then, compared to what they have sometime. In California he did not contact Howard Cline as he had hoped to do. . . . Howard and Ralph Wellington, telegraphers, and with the N. & W. railroad, are now stationed at Salem, West Virginia. They are both home boys, Ralph yet a student at the local office. Don Wean, another of our boy telegraphers, is stationed temporarily at Duvall substituting for Mr. Newman who is on his vacation. . . . Russel Reid said to us Saturday evening that he had his big kettles all polished up bright and clean ready for the sweet corn boiling at his home, this Monday night, the 23rd. And we are all invited. This is an annual affair held by the Brethren Brotherhood.

WOMAN, 36, STILL YAWNING AFTER 18-DAY ATTACK

SAN RAFAEL, Calif., Aug. 23.—(UP)—Lapsing into a semi-stupor, Mrs. Rita O'Conner, 36, continued to yawn at the rate of once every three minutes, as she had been doing for 18 days.

Sleeping potions provided her only temporary relief and her attending physician appealed to fellow practitioners for advice today. They planned a general consultation on the case.

Mrs. O'Conner has gained weight during the affliction, and although doctors told her that yawning was supposed to be restful, she said she did not find it so.

"I am so tired of it all," she said. "I am just about worn out. I have terrible headaches that last for hours at a time and I just can't seem to sleep or stop yawning."

The attending physician, who preferred to remain anonymous, said there were about half dozen cases similar to Mrs. O'Conner's on record, "but no two cases have been alike in cause."

"In some cases the patient has been known to recover without its becoming known what caused the malady or the cure. There is not much in the medical records that can help me."

"In Mrs. O'Conner's case I believe it is some type of nervous disorder. Her spinal fluid has been tested. Her diet is being watched carefully."

The late Paul Dreiser, a brother of the novelist, Theodore Dreiser, wrote the song, "On the Banks of the Wabash."

MARRIAGE PLANS MADE

One Man's Family is making plans for the wedding of Cliff Barbour and Ann Waite. Festivities preceding the ceremony begin on the broadcast over the NBC red network at 7 p. m. (EST) on Wednesday, Aug. 25.

The Barbours give a shower for the couple and many presents arrive. The shower will be climaxed by the arrival of a letter which surprises Cliff, Ann and the entire family.

This installment of the serial, written by Carlton Morse, is entitled, "A Shower For Clifford and Ann."

The entire installment does not concern the shower, however. At the end of the event, Mother Barbour finds herself playing a motherly role both to her son and her future daughter-in-law. Ann's mother is dead and the duty of explaining to her the seriousness of marriage vows and the sacrifice wives must make, falls upon Mother Barbour. They appear in an intimate scene.

"Strip" Trousers Advocated

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—The strip tease presumably is not necessarily confined, to burlesque artists. A member of a local woman's club reported to the latter that correct male wear for an afternoon wedding consists of morning coat and "strip" trousers.

Increased demand for woolen fabrics in the United States in 1937 brought the consumption of apparel wool 16 percent above the 1936 figures. Prices for wool are expected to remain near present levels for the next few months.

Higher wages for farm labor during the next 12 months are in prospect unless unforeseen factors change conditions. The trend has been continuously upward for the past four years and the rate of increase shows no sign of slackening.

Farmers in some sections of the county get the idea that a spray of Epsom salts solution would control the Mexican bean beetle, but extensive studies by entomologists prove that the treatment is useless and money spent for materials is wasted.

Prices for flue-cured tobacco on opening day of the south Carolina market were from one to eight dollars higher than on opening day last year. Price gains were principally on medium and common grades.

WASHINGTON NEWS

FROM OUR CONGRESSMAN HAROLD K. CLAYPOOL

THIS COLUMN is initiated as an effort to present to constituents of the Eleventh Congressional District a picture of development in the Legislative, Executive and Judicial branches of the National Government. I am led to believe that the readers of THE DAILY HERALD are interested in these occurrences because of the inquiries received in my office through the mail.

VISITORS—Visitors from home this week included the following: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Core, New Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. William Mautz, Somerset; Mr. Fred Schuman and daughters Dortha and Mary, Chillicothe; Judge Frank Fleming and Frank McCauley; Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Kelly and son Bill, Chillicothe; Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Kelly, Cincinnati; Miss Mabel Cochran, Chillicothe; William Wetzel, Sister, and the two Misses Heinzel, Chillicothe; Frank Larabee, Lancaster; Sol Fisher, New York, formerly of Corning; Harry Obeare, Lancaster.

FARM YEGISLATION—Agriculture is the biggest business in America. There are more than 200 different agricultural commodities. The annual production is valued at about nine and a half billion dollars. The value of the lands upon which these products are produced is around $40,000,000,000. There is no business in this country comparable to it in value, volume, or number of people affected. It is for this reason that farm legislation is of the greatest importance to all of the United States and the reason that farm problems always receive the most serious consideration of Congress.

While a comprehensive farm program will not be adopted until the next session of Congress a number of measures have been acted upon by the House at this session, which affect the farmer. Among these measures are the amendments to the Soil Conservation Act; Agricultural Marketing Act; Farm Security Act (Tenant Act); Sugar act of 1937; Crop loans for 1937; appropriation to destroy grasshoppers; and an act continuing the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. In addition present low interest rates on loans made by the Federal Land

Banks and the Land Bank Commissioners were continued.

NATIONAL LABOR RELATIONS BOARD—Since its inception late in 1935 to May of this year the National Labor Relations Board has considered 3,852 cases involving 1,274,131 workers. Of this number 2,379 cases were closed, 602 were withdrawn, 1,290 closed by agreement of the parties involved, and 324 dismissed. The Board has also supervised 201 elections to determine who was to represent the workers in collective bargaining. The Board has handled 580 strikes, averted 236, and settled 423.

BENEFITS UNDER THE EROSION CONSERVATION ACT—According to a compilation inserted in the Congressional Record by Congressman Martin of Mass., Ohio has received benefits totaling $10,355,978.82 under the Erosion Conservation Act. These benefits were paid to Ohio's Farm population of 1,013,229 persons. The per capita benefits were $10.22.

RUSH LEGISLATION—When the voters the United States read newspaper accounts of how its Congress in last minute drive for adjournment jams through important bills with little or no debate they must wonder if most of these measures aren't hasty and ill-conceived.

However, these newspaper accounts fail to mention that most of these measures were proposed during the last campaign, introduced when Congress first convened and extensive hearings held by the various committees before they were reported to the House and brought before it for consideration. Almost every Member knew in advance how his constituents felt about these measures, had investigated their effect on his district and had made his mind as to how he was going to vote. So in reality we are not jamming through important bills in a hasty manner but are just completing formal action on measures that have already had conscientious consideration.

ADJOURNMENT—Ninety two members of the House leave Washington this week after completing their first session as Representatives in Congress. One Member, Congressman Adolph J. Sabath of Illinois, returns home after having served his district in Washington since March 4, 1907. The new Members have had to master legislative procedure in the U. S. House of Representatives and deal with problems of National importance. The old Members have had only the problems to face, but to both the old and new Members it has been an outstanding experience of their lives and an opportunity to serve the people they represent. Regardless of the length of their service they must all in 1938 appear before their employers to learn whether or not their work has been satisfactory—the people of the United States.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men?

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electric refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean — rugs, floors, bathroom tiling — and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise and delight her her family? And where does she discover those subtleties of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful advertisement reader, because she has found that she can believe them—and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads the advertisements too!

BITTER SESSION OF SOLONS ENDS IN PARTY SPLIT

Democratic Control Fight Believed Possible As Result of Dispute

REPRISALS HINTED, DENIED

Both Houses Resist Crop Surplus Control

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(UP)—Political warfare for control of the Democratic party was foreseen today as a likely development of the bitter session of congress which scrambled through the wreckage of President Roosevelt's 1937 program Saturday and adjourned.

The New Deal has been weakened on both right and left wings.

A conservative, southern Democratic bloc began to emerge in congress this year, possibly to challenge New Deal forces when the party convention meets in 1940 to name a presidential nominee.

Mr. Roosevelt is believed ready to go to the people in protest against wreckage of his legislative program and possibly to contemplate a special November session of congress to obtain some of his 1937 objectives.

He already is booked for an address here Sept. 17 in which he is expected to continue his counter-attack of conservative opponents begun last week at Roanoke Island, N. C.

Ranks Divided

Congress adjourned Saturday after a bitter session marked by division in New Deal ranks and legislative refusal to enact several major proposals submitted by Mr. Roosevelt.

The senate scuttled Mr. Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill. Both houses joined in passive resistance against crop surplus control legislation at this session.

The wage and hours bill designed to make good some of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign promises passed the senate, but was buried in the house under southern Democratic opposition. Bills for reorganization of the executive departments and for nationally planned control of water power and other resources likewise were lost at this session.

A shifting combination of Republican and conservative Democratic votes in house and senate defeated Mr. Roosevelt this year on a dozen legislative fronts.

But if a special session is called this Autumn it would be primarily to obtain crop surplus control and wages-hours legislation. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that he has not surrendered on some plan to deal with the supreme court, despite overwhelming rejection of his first proposals.

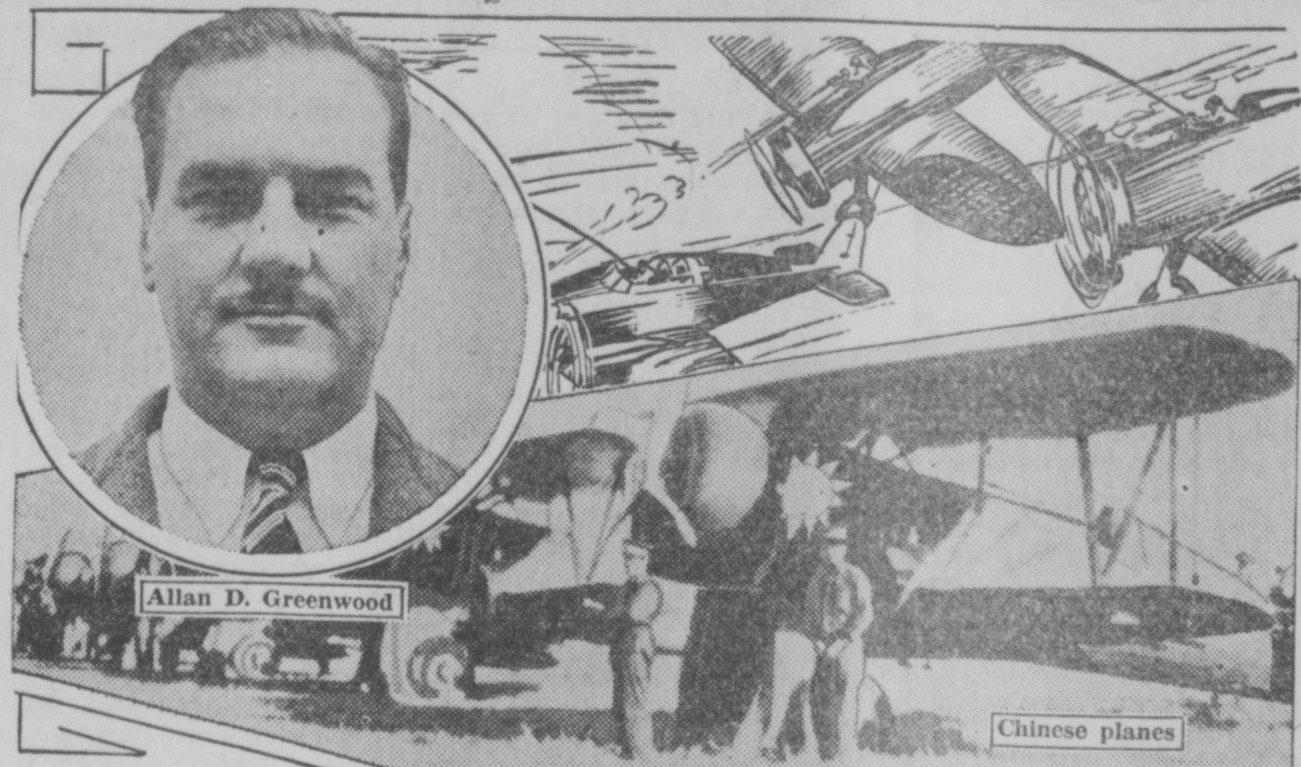

But it is believed the New Deal would prefer to postpone that issue until after the 1938 congressional elections when voters have had an opportunity to pass on the conduct of Democratic senators who opposed the president this year. Some rebels, notably Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D., Ind., Sen. Royal S. Copeland, D., N. Y., Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., and Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., already are convinced that the New Deal plans reprisals.

Hopes Diminish

With some of these senators in the center of it, congress adjourned in clamorous political bitterness. Hopes for an early return of Democratic harmony were considerably diminished.

Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican national committee said as the legislators scattered that New Deal leadership had "failed the people." To that extent he almost duplicated the charge made a day previously by John L. Lewis, chairman of Labor's non-partisan league and spokesman of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Lewis said that this session of congress demonstrated

American-Trained Chinese Pilots Mainstays of China's Air Force

Allan D. Greenwood

Chinese planes

American Chinese flyers with central army in Orient

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23 — Aerial warfare between Chinese and Japanese has one close observer here, for 32 of his former pupils are flying in the Chinese army air corps.

Allan D. Greenwood, Oregon state aeronautics inspector, in 1932 trained 34 young Chinese to fly at the Swan Island airport here. All except two returned or went to China and joined the air corps.

Through correspondence with his former pupils, Greenwood knows they are well equipped, flying the latest type of American, German, British and Italian aircraft.

Chinese Good Pilots

"A Chinese makes just as good a pilot as an American," Greenwood explained. "Chinese are deliberate and those I taught were studious. They are without fear."

"I put my class through 1,600 hours of flying and we didn't have the slightest kind of an accident."

It was a Japanese war scare in 1932 that prompted the training of young Chinese flyers here, Greenwood recalls.

"The Shanghai incident in 1932 served to be the incentive," he said. "While the students did not complete their local training until the Shanghai trouble started, the stimulus of the difficulty brought large contributions to the training course from Chinese business men in this country.

"The group called themselves the Chinese Aeronautical association and students came from all parts of the United States and Hawaii. The association was formed in Portland and was financed by Chinese business men on the Pacific coast, who contributed $30,000 for training.

Dedicate Lives

"But before a young Chinese would be accepted for training, he had to sign a pledge dedicating his life to Chinese army aviation and to the interests of China."

After the Chinese had completed their training here they were sent to China in two groups. The first departed in August, 1932, and the second in January, 1933. They have been over there ever since except for John K. Wong and Arthur Chin, formerly of Portland, who trained with the German air corps in 1936.

"Wong and Chin wrote me," Greenwood says, "that their gunnery, bombing and formation flying was on a par with their German associates, but that the Germans excelled in cross-country flying and radio navigation work.

"The pair returned to China and are in the pursuit stationed at Hang Chow."

Airplane Gift

Greenwood disclosed that one of his former students is Mai Euan Lam, brother of a Portland physician. Mai Euan was promoted last year to test pilot for the Chinese air corps and was one of a commission of three officers who came to the United States last autumn and purchased 40 airplanes to present to Chiang Kai-shek on the general's birthday.

Mai Euan, now is active in command of pursuit flying. All now have had five years' military experience.

Also trained here were two Portland Chinese girls, Hazel Lee and Virginia Wong, the Oregon official said. Miss Lee flew with the army in China for two years, but since has been transferred to an administrative post with the Chinese aeronautical library. Miss Wong died of malaria in 1934.

FEED SUPPLIES PROMISED WITH GOOD CORN CROP

A good corn crop in Ohio and several other states is indicated by the August 1 estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics which places the condition of Ohio corn at 80 percent or more of normal except in a few small areas.

The condition of the crop over the whole country is 83.2 percent of normal. Drought damaged corn in a large region from northern Texas to the Canadian border and there is not much chance for much improvement of corn in that area.

Corn prospects are particularly good through Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and parts of Minnesota and Missouri. The average yield for the country this year is expected to be 27.7 bushels per acre, which will be the best yield in the last 13 years.

Continued favorable conditions for corn will assure a plentiful supply of feed on farms this year but farmers in this year's drought section probably will not have feed enough to encourage them to bring livestock numbers back to normal there.

Corn conditions in Ohio on August 1 compared favorably with those on that date in 1935 and are much better than those of 1933, 1934, or 1936. Estimates on corn crop conditions are based on reports from every area made by crop correspondents and sent to Washington crop estimators.

Automobile Workers Discuss Ford Activity

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23—(UP)—The second annual convention of the United Automobile Workers of America opened today amid bitter factional strife which may affect seriously their next goal—unionization of Henry Ford's 140,000 workers.

Plans for the Ford campaign, only large automobile manufacturer who has not signed a contract with the union, and a review of "the most successful year," predominated early discussion.

The Ford campaign was the subject of several of the 201 resolutions submitted for convention consideration. One proposed that each member be assessed 25 cents a month to finance the drive. On the basis of claimed membership, it would raise $1,025,000 annually. Another would pledge the convention to "all necessary financial support" for the campaign.

President Homer Martin and First Vice President Wyndham Mortimer led two factions split over the question of centralized control.

Mortimer's followers, known as the "unity faction," were prepared to bring the fight into the open immediately by contesting a majority report of the credentials committee which would deny seats to some of the union's crack organizers. They include Lloyd Jones, Detroit, president of the Murray body local and international executive board member, and Roy Reuther, Flint organizer.

What some of America's aquatic stars say about Camels

SPRINGBOARD ACE. Lovely Jane Fauntz Manske, of Chicago, says: "It's Camels for me! Good digestion is of prime importance to me. Tense competition and all the changes of diet when traveling are liable to upset digestion. But I smoke Camels at mealtimes and after and my digestion runs smoothly."

The best of meals tastes better and digests easier when you have an abundant flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids. Smoking Camels encourages this flow—helps you enjoy a sense of well-being. Steady smokers say: "Camels set me right!"

HAROLD ("DUTCH") SMITH, Olympic diving champion, would "walk a mile for a Camel!" "I find a great deal of pleasure in Camels," says "Dutch." "I long ago discovered that smoking a Camel restores my flow of energy after a strenuous meet—gives an invigorating 'lift!'"

THREE-TIME OLYMPIC WINNER in the high-diving event, Dorothy Poynton Hill, of Los Angeles—a steady Camel smoker—says: "I prefer Camels because they don't get on my nerves. And they have such a rich, delicate flavor and never tire my taste."

"PETE" DESJARDINS—another famous diver—speaking: "Divers like a mild cigarette that doesn't upset their nerves. That's why I prefer to smoke Camels."

CAMERA BATTLE

ONE amusing tale comes from troubled Peiping. It is said that when a column of Japanese soldiers marched past the compound of the United States Marine Corp, a lot of marines, off duty, climbed atop the wall and began snapping pictures. That did not please a gold-braided Japanese general who halted his car to get out and command that the picture-taking stop.

Naturally, the marines didn't stop. They were on their own wall having a fine time.

The general decided retaliation was called for. He went back to his car, summoned Japanese staff photographers and ordered them to take pictures of the marines and their cameras. The mutual snap-shooting went on for ten minutes, by which time the films on each side probably ran out, giving the general a chance to move on and the marines a chance to seek other amusement.

This may yet turn up as an international incident, though we hardly expect it. Cats may look at kings and probably marines may take pictures of soldiers marching down a main street almost anywhere.

LITTLE NEW CAR

MIDGET cars have been made from time to time and have had fair sales but they have never been able to take the public attention to any great extent from the low-priced cars of standard sizes. A variety is promised for 1938. Orders have been given for dies and materials, and the assembly line is expected to start in September for production of a 1938 model, which will be called the Bantam car. The company about to make it believes that it has a design which will produce a speed of 60 miles an hour and will run up to 60 miles on a gallon of gas.

If these promises can be performed, and if the car is comfortable to ride in, here will be something the world is looking for. Comfort within limits, of course; one does not expect Cadillac smoothness of a bantam. But there is still a large group of people who, either for pleasure or business, would like something more adaptable than a motorcycle and less expensive than a flivver. Many will watch with interest to see whether the new chick can fight its way up among the big roosters.

That Arctic Soviet camp on the ice is drifting away from the North Pole, but no faster than Soviet Russia is drifting away from Marxian Socialism.

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Awake to the monotonous thumping of tom-toms, recognizing the cadence as Cheyenne and wondering how that tribe ever made its way into the valley of the Scioto. Then the mists cleared and I became the inside of the drum and host to the grand-daddy of all headaches. Too much heat, too much heavy food and too much ice water provide a combination of unpleasant circumstances, as did learn full well. So, belowstairs for coffee, a glimpse of the morning paper and then away to the post.

At the plant did meet Pres Hooser and his pressman guest from Ft. Wayne, they wishing to inspect the newspaper plant of a small town and the Hoosier being considerably surprised. Then angered by a man making his way from down in Tennessee to Canada, he having left certain relief in his home town and placing his family of a wife and two small sons in a dilapidated car and his trust in the Lord did take off for the end of the rainbow. Scolded him without restraint, but bought breakfast for the family, for the woman and kids were hungry.

Chatted with Miller Fissell, George Gerhardt, Jack Ryan and Morris Boggs as they were about to take off on a North Michigan fishing vacation and wished them well. Turned, then, to meet Grocer Stepleton, also ready to head northward after big fish, but doubtful as to his destination. Greeted Herb Suver, just back from vacationing in the South. Here they come and there they go, either just leaving or just back from jaunts away from business cares.

What a fine job of writing those substitute scribes did the last two weeks and how well were their efforts received! Thanks to each and every one of them.

Breathed a sigh of relief over adjournment of congress, for business now may hit the prosperity trail once more without fear of being scalped, at least until the next possible special session. Chatted with an able farmer who declared he is glad no further farm relief legislation was enacted, for "I'm ashamed to take what I already am getting, but I would be foolish to refuse it." He also somewhat aroused over the more than $11,000 each of the resettlement units will cost in the Scioto project.

Sat on the front porch and chatted with Frank Goff, county juvenile officer, telling him about a woman who banged on the front door at two in the morning and asked for Frank. Told her that Frank lived next door, but in a half hour she was back once more, asking the same questions. Did shoo her away then, for being disturbed at that hour of the morning and right at the most interesting and thrilling part of what at one time would have been dubbed a "dime thriller", but now is generally recognized as diverting literature, is not desirable experience. Frank failed to sympathize, merely remarking: "That happens with me almost every night." Decided, then, to remain in the newspaper business.

THE TUTTS By Crawford Young

DIET AND HEALTH

Has Stutterer Special Type of Personality?

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

DR. JAMES A. GREENE, who has had such a wide experience in treating such cases at the National Hospital for Speech Disorders, in New York, believes that a stutterer has a kind of personality type. The stutter type of person may not develop into a stutterer, but he has a better chance than others.

One feature of the stutter type that has attracted a great deal of attention is the theory of cerebral dominance. Or, in other words, whether a person is dominantly right or left handed. It is, however, not only right and left handedness that is involved, but right and left eyesight, hearing dominance and foot and leg dominance.

So far as speech is concerned, it is known that in the majority of people the centers for speech are in the left half of the brain. And these people are naturally right handed. The motor fibers for control of the muscles of the arms and legs cross over from the brain centers to the opposite side of the body, so the dominant muscle cells for the right side of the body in these right handed people are in the left half of the brain, too.

In left handed persons presumably this is all changed—the speech centers are in the right half of the brain. And the supposition has been that to try to teach these people right handedness destroys the cerebral balance, with consequent functional disturbance in the play of muscles and speech centers with the result—stuttering.

Dr. Greene is not fully convinced of the truth of this theory. He admits that most stutterers are left handed, but says that many nervous people representing behavior disorders, squint, neuroses and other conditions are left handed. He says that his study of the evidence leads him to believe that stuttering may not be related to left handedness or manual reversal.

He does feel that the stuttering type of child has a peculiar nervous organization, on top of which is early conditioning in the family. These people have an unstable vegetative nervous system—that part of the nervous system which takes care of so many automatic functions without ever impinging on consciousness. The hands of these people in the throes of spasmic speech are drenched with perspiration. They have rapid changes in the action of the small blood vessels, flushing and pallor alternately, and may appear in the disorganized muscular functioning of speech.

Added to this is a fundamental instability of the emotional life, which has been aggravated by some family stress during childhood.

Undoubtedly it is true that the basis of stuttering is not simple. Parents point out that the stuttering child is bright in studies, and seem to feel that the only thing needed is a few speech drills. They do not realize that they have a special type of child and a very complex problem to deal with.

My own experience with adults who have a tendency to stutter, or who have overcome stuttering, would not indicate that there is as much nervous instability as Dr. Greene's experience has uncovered. The cerebral dominance theory works in practice—that is in successful treatment.

RUSTLE OF SILKS

CHAPTER 30

ALMA GREER stirred the soup in the big black kettle with one hand and shook paprika on the salad in a huge, misshapen bowl with the other. "Cecily, take Ted's typewriter off the table. We'll have to use that one."

Cecily said, "I can't!" She held her sides and let out her breath. "Mari, I've never seen you in such a mood!" She went off into gales of laughter again.

Alma said, "Mari, fun's fun but see that you don't take off our eminent bankers before any of their compatriots, they might not understand. And you do look a little like Monsieur LeVene, even if he has a beard and you haven't."

"Oh, goodness, Alma, I haven't had such fun since I can remember. I guess it's getting the weight off my mind, knowing that Mark could handle things so competently. I wish you could have seen him..."

Ted Greer lumbered up the narrow stairs, belloved through the door and opened it. "Is that party still going on?"

Mari, Alma and Cecily said it wasn't, and went off into laughter again.

Ted flung an arm about his wife, dipped a wooden spoon into the soup and demanded to know what the merriment was all about.

"Oh, Ted, you must see Mari take off the bankers..."

"It wasn't really funny, Ted," Mari said. "It was very important and involved hundreds of thousands of francs. And all the papers were signed today. But when it came time for me to sign them, I really felt that I needed only an 'X' instead of my name. I had so little to do with it!"

"It was like a moving picture in which you see an actor do a new serious role in a comic situation. Mark was superb! He rattled off French and pounded his hands on the table and the Frenchmen pounded and shouted 'Non! Non!' until I was terrified that the thing would not go through. It all happened so fast I didn't know what it was all about. But at lunch, Mr. Leland, who is Mark's something or other like an equerry, told me that everything is settled and if the thing doesn't work out financially, I have no responsibility. All I have to do is to okay plans."

"But, Mari, that will mean that it isn't your company. It will belong to other people and you'll only be a figurehead."

"Oh, no it won't!" she retorted. "I have no responsibility. I have only to put up my reputation and all that. It will belong to me soon. Wait and see."

Ted shrugged his shoulders but he had his doubts.

"Soup's done, salad's ready. There's a yard and a half of bread and some beautiful old cheese," Alma said.

Ted got to the coffee stage when Mari said, "Heavens! I almost forgot! I'm dancing tonight with Mark and I should be dressed now. What time is it?"

"A little after 8."

Mari didn't get up. She stirred the pewter spoon in the handleless green cup on the orange saucer. She stirred it dreamily.

Her eyes swung slowly around the garret studio. They rested on the four lounges in the four corners that served as beds by night. They drank in the canvases and the easel that were Alma's. There was a pleasant haze above the smoking lamps, the smoke from their cigarettes. The smell of paint and coffee and verbera, a curious

American scent, pervaded the room.

Over their heads the stars gleamed in the winter sky and shone through the broad skylight window.

Somewhere out of doors chimed cut silvery notes through the night.

Mari leaned her arms on the table. Her heart felt warm, her body was filled with a sense of well being. Her mood was amiable, affectionate toward these friends who, perforce, had to fill so much of her life. It was the Greens now. It had been the Wolastons the year before. American newspaper people shifted about to various posts on the continent, coming and going out of her life, offering her the only friendships she had.

"I shan't ever want anything but this," she said softly.

Ted opened his mouth to speak; his wife touched his ankle with the toe of her shoe.

"Completely happy?" she said to Mari.

"Of course," Mari answered, "but I wasn't thinking of that. I was thinking that I can't ever be any happier than I am at this moment with you. It's the simplicity of it all. I like simple things. I don't want anything else."

Cecily sighed. "Simple things! Putting an extra carrot into yesterday's stew and making it into today's soup! Having friends turn up from America expecting to be shown Paris and then having to borrow 20 francs to buy a bottle of vin rouge and pretending to be Bohemian! What I'd give for a charge account at the corner grocery store and a shopping fling at a good American department store!"

"That's being simple, too," Cecily said.

"She means that she doesn't care for footmen and emeralds, and town houses and glamor," Cecily said.

"Show me the woman who doesn't!" his wife retorted.

"I can," Mari said, "I'll show her to you in person someday."

Gladys Steenrod and Richard Robinson Wed

Home in Columbus
Scene of Vows
Saturday

Saturday at high noon, Miss Gladys Steenrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Steenrod, of 1671 Summit street, Columbus, became the bride of Mr. Richard Robinson, son of Mrs. C. B. Robinson, of S. Scioto street.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of about 30 relatives and friends, the Rev. W. R. Walker of the Indiana Church of Christ officiating.

Miss Steenrod chose for her wedding a gown of white lace. She carried a white prayer book with shower arrangement of white flowers.

Miss Billy Steenrod, her sister, gowned in aquamarine organza, served as bridesmaid. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses. Arthur Steele acted as best man for Mr. Robinson.

The new Mrs. Robinson is a graduate of Ohio State university hospital where she has been employed as supervisor for the last four years. Before this she was a member of the staff of Berger hospital for several years. Mr. Robinson, who is a graduate of Circleville high school, is associated with the Third National Bank.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given for the wedding party at the Steenrod home after which the bride and bridegroom left for a trip to North Carolina and the Great Smoky mountains. On their return they will make their home in Circleville.

Minneapolis was bumped hard yesterday by both Columbus and Toledo and went to third place in the American association race.

Columbus moved into the top position by splitting a twin bill with St. Paul while Toledo defeated the Millers twice to go into second place, a half game behind Columbus and a half game ahead of the third place squad.

The Red Birds won the opening game with St. Paul behind the two hit performance of Max Macon, who scored his 19th victory of the season. The score was 2-0.

St. Paul took the second game 8-5. Phelps of the Apostles won the nightcap.

Toledo won its games, 3-2 and 4-1 from Minneapolis. Al Cohen gave up seven hits in the first game while Trout held the Millers to four singles in the second game.

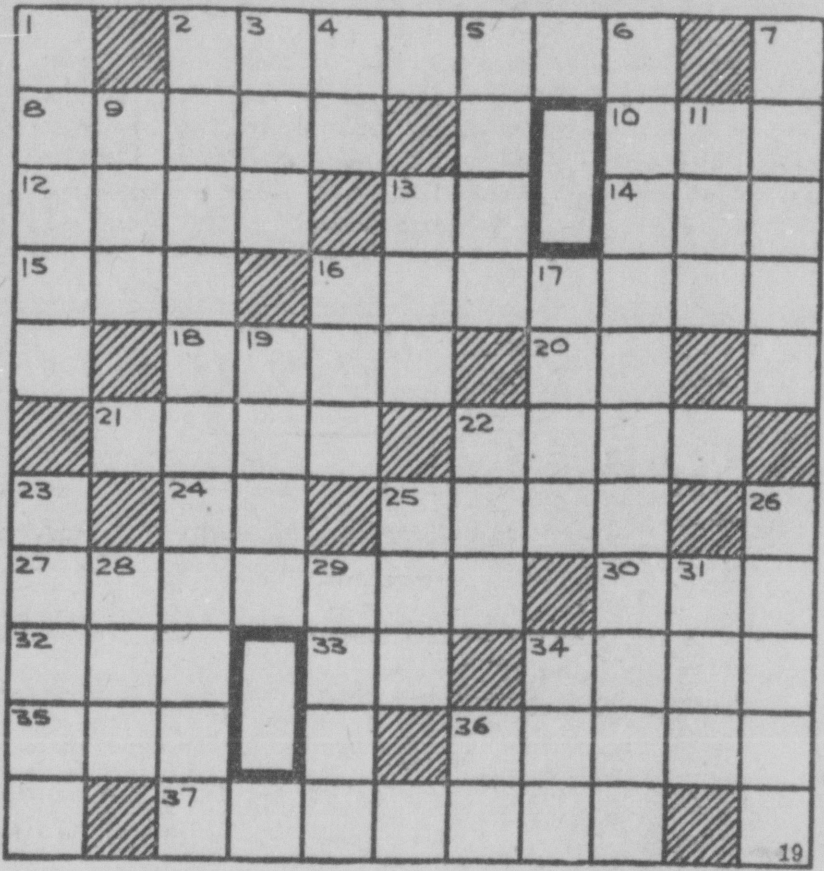

Indianapolis was in fifth position in the league by virtue of a 4-2 victory over Milwaukee in the second game of a twin bill. The Brewers won 10-4 in the curtain raiser.

Louisville took a doubleheader from Kansas City. The scores were 2-1 and 2-0. Eistenstat and Peterson pitched for the winners.

Today's Schedule
Kansas City at Columbus (night)
St. Paul at Louisville.
Minneapolis at Indianapolis.
Milwaukee at Toledo.

PICKING THE RIGHT NO HAND is more puzzling to the average player, from a bidding standpoint, than one of only moderate strength containing two "non touching" biddable four-card suits—such as spades and diamonds or hearts and clubs. His problem is which to call first. Of course, if the suits had been touching, he could call the higher without any worries, but when they are separated, he has a job to find a fit in the cheapest way. In such a hand there is always a doubleton in one side suit and a trebleton in the other. A simple rule followed by most experts is to bid the suit immediately below the doubleton, as the latter is the one in which the partner is likely to have length and make his response, whereupon the other suit can be shown.

MORE THAN 10,000 ATTEND MOUNT OF PRAISE MEETINGS SUNDAY

BIG TABERNACLE FILLED DURING MANY SESSIONS

Young People Pay Debt On Their Structure, Plan New Equipment

THREE ARE ORDAINED
882 Pounds Of Meat Used During Week-end

Mount of Praise officials estimated at least 10,000 persons attended various sessions of the camp meeting of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union of Ohio, E. Ohio street, Sunday.

Throughout the afternoon and evening programs the tabernacle was filled, all benches at the rear of the huge building were in use and many persons stood about the building.

Cool weather, ideal for traveling, boosted the crowd for the first Sunday of the camp meeting. Between 6 a. m. and noon about 1,000 cars entered the camp grounds.

Many Tents Added
Additional space added to the grounds this year made parking more convenient and brought an increase in the number of tents. There are about 50 tents on the grounds this year. All dormitories have been filled. Officials estimated 1,200 persons are living on the grounds while many more are residing in private homes.

Announcement was made Sunday that the young people have paid the debt on their tabernacle on the grounds and contemplate construction of a large dormitory next year that will be equipped with furnished rooms.

Three persons were ordained as pastors Sunday morning at services. They were Mrs. Clara Atkins, Leesburg, O.; Ralph Dillard and A. E. Halbert, both of Milford Center. Members of the ordination committee are the Revs. G. W. Smith and O. L. Ferguson, city; J. W. Sylvester, Cincinnati; G. C. Johnson, Columbus, and A. E. Keaton, Chillicothe.

Pastor, 14, Present
The youngest pastor on the grounds is Morton Dorsey, 14, of Winchester, and the oldest, the Rev. C. J. Ferneau, 84, of Cincinnati.

The Rev. Mr. Ferguson, camp superintendent, reported 882 pounds of meat used in the restaurant Saturday and Sunday. Food consumed Sunday included 35½ dozen of doughnuts, 93 dozen loaves of bread, 237 dozen buns, 10 dozen pies, 105 gallons of soup, 1,540 half pints of milk and orange-ade, 108 quarts of milk, seven bushels of potatoes, 279 dozen ice cream bars, 45 gallons of bulk ice cream, and six dozens of eggs were used for noodles.

Restaurant workers said a steady line of persons passed through the building from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Evangelists Listed
The three evangelists who will preach for the services this week are the Rev. Charles L. Slater, Pasadena, Cal.; the Rev. Bona Fleming, Ashland, Ky., and the Rev. Paul Rees, Kansas City, Mo. The Rev. Mr. Fleming will preach Monday at the service at 8:15 p. m.

Throughout the remainder of the week the following schedule will be followed daily: rising bell, 6 a. m.; prayer and praise service, 7 a. m.; missionary service, 8 a. m.; breakfast, 9 a. m.; song service, 10:30 a. m. and preaching, 11 a. m. Children's meeting, 1 p. m.; song service, 2 p. m.; preaching, 2:30 p. m., dinner, 4 p. m.

Young people's meeting, 6 p. m.; platform service, 6 p. m.; song service, 7:30 p. m., and evangelist service, 8:15 p. m.

Saturday has been designated as Missionary Day and officials hope to have missionaries from many fields for the service.

The camp meeting programs are open to all interested persons.

POSSESSION OF RACCOONS COSTS VIRGIL COSSIN, 40
Two hearings were conducted Monday morning by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace.

Virgil Cossin, 40, Commercial Point, was fined $25 and costs and $10 and costs on two charges of illegal possession of two raccoons. Cossin paid both fines. He was arrested by Clarence Francis, county game officer.

The raccoon were given to the local sportsmen's association and released.

CHARRED BODIES REMOVED FROM BURNING FOREST

C. C. C. Workers and Others Trapped in Shoshone Region Near Cody

billowing clouds of smoke. Some of the animals fell dead of suffocation on the way.

Doctors and nurses sped here from as far as Billings, Mont., 125 miles away. Two carloads of nurses arrived last night.

A force of 700 men, most of them from a CCC camp, was battling the fire in the virgin timberlands. There had been no time to check the roll for the missing.

The fire had charred 2,000 acres in a rugged, uninhabited area 16 miles from Yellowstone National park. Those burned were trapped in inflammable timber and brush by shifting winds.

The worst disaster occurred Saturday when a force of 50 workers was trapped in the Black Water rim rock. Most of the bodies did not reach here, 35 miles southeast of the scene, until last night.

Identification Gone
A few bodies were nearly consumed and the only hope of identifying them was in finding locker keys, jewelry or trinkets in the ashes of clothing that clung to their forms.

In the trapped party were 40 CCC enrollees from the Thermopole camp; nine bureau of public roads employees and Earl Davis, roads bureau foreman.

They were digging fire lanes ahead of the advancing blaze when a sudden gust of wind sent fire whistling through the tops of pine trees, igniting the area on all sides.

Davis ordered the men to seek safety at the rocky base of the mountain, and to lie still under the boulders.

Several youths became terrified and dashed headlong into the fire, Davis said. Each time one youth ran, another attempted to follow him.

One youth who survived the dash lay in a hospital today and described with blackened lips a parade through fire.

Clothes Burned Off
"I saw the clothes of the man ahead of me drop off piece by piece," he said. "He walked on and I could see big patches of steaming flesh hanging from jagged twigs sticking out of the underbrush. His hair had been burned away and he plodded on slowly, gasping for fresh air."

"It was the worst sight I ever hope to see. We would look up and see a solid mass of flame eating its way through the tops of the trees. We had to watch the ground and the tree tops both to keep from falling over a smoldering log or having a burning limb fall on us."

"At last we came to a small clearing which already had been burned over. We piled seven bodies of men who had died side by side on the black ground. They had been picked up by men who hadn't dreamed of getting out of the inferno alive themselves."

He said there were "others back there too; I know we didn't get to carry all of them out."

Forest service authorities said five of the dead had been identified as Harold Rogers, CCC enrollee of George, Tex.; James Sabin, forestry service foreman of Hyattsville, Wyo.; Rex Hale, address not learned, a junior assistant technician of the forestry service; Bill Lee, bureau of public roads employee, Alfred Clayton, ranger, and Roy Bevin, CCC enrollee of Smithville, Tex.

Passes out of the forest were made nearly impassable by the clouds of smoke. Rescue workers, attempting to move bodies, were choked and blinded. When a burro fell with its grisly load, the dead or injured man would be moved to another animal and they would trudge on.

Hospitals Filled
There were three hospitals in Cody and all were crowded to capacity.

Most of the CCC enrollees came from Texas. One of them, Sam Van Arsdale, who was brought to the hospital suffering major burns, said he and a Mexican companion had burrowed under moist earth to escape the fire that was suddenly swept in their direction. The wind would fan the fire on faster than a man could run through the brush.

POLICEMEN BUSY

of the proprietor of a German bookshop and circulating library, was killed. Miss Valeria Glasser, a Pole, and Alfred Brunner, Swiss representative of a chemical company, were wounded.

The concussion of the Nanking road bomb was so terrific that it stopped all clocks in the area.

The storehouse bomb again endangered American navy lives and properties. But it was the Nanking road bomb that struck terror into Shanghai and brought back vivid memory of the horrible bombing of August 14 in which more than 1,000 people were killed by one bomb alone and whose total casualties never will be known.

Nor may the toll of today's Nanking road bomb ever be known, because many wounded were treated in homes or offices and not reported to police, and the dead carted away in trucks.

At about the time of the bombing, Miss Josephine "Dodie" Hatton, British dancer born in Shanghai, died at the Country hospital—where Correspondent Billings was taken—of wounds she received in the terrible August 14 bombing of the palace and Cathay hotel area.

Japanese airplanes bombed Chinese in the North railroad station area of Shanghai this afternoon while Japanese warships bombarded Pootung on the other side of the river. One destroyer moored at a Hongkong dock and fired point blank into the Chinese line across the river.

Flames from new fires in the Japanese Hongkew section leaped up toward dark.

60,000 Japs on Hand
Foreign military experts estimated as high as 60,000 the number of Japanese troops who, reaching the mouth of the river, effected landings at half a dozen points, established field headquarters at Wenchaopang, railroad station and began unloading munitions, artillery and general supplies.

The Japanese troops, brought to reinforce the navy men fighting here, were busy for the present in consolidating their positions, organizing for a drive in which they hoped to trap thousands of the Chinese regulars who were resisting fiercely their effort to make their positions secure.

But the horror of the Nanking road bomb overshadowed all military developments.

fists before her screams frightened him away.

Police Chief John Prendergast and Detective Chief John L. Sullivan took personal charge and ordered their entire forces to round up sex crime suspects after Miss Kuchta was slain in her hospital room.

Miss Kuchta had gone to her room for a two-hour rest. She was found by her roommate, Miss Florence Palmowski, who saw a man climbing out a window to the fire escape.

Other Deaths Recalled

Three other similar deaths have been recorded during the last two years. Mrs. Lillian Guild, 60, was killed in her Y.M.C.A. hotel room. Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle was beaten to death in her hotel room by an assailant who scribbled in lipstick on the dressing table mirror, "Beware, Black Legion." Mrs. Louise Trammell was killed in her hotel room.

In almost every instance the attacker entered through a window from a fire escape or adjoining building. Increasing frequency of the crimes since Mrs. Rose London was beaten with a brick, assaulted and robbed in a downtown hotel room in October, 1935, aroused a public clamor for swift action. Miss Virginia Austin was assaulted similarly in another hotel a week ago last night.

Mrs. Willard Cornwell, president of the Chicago Women's club, led a protest movement with the declaration:

"When a woman cannot register safely at a reputable hotel, when she is not safe to walk the streets, then something is wrong somewhere."

A group of business men said they would confer with Mayor Edward J. Kelly on measures to halt the attacks.

NEW YORKER MAY BECOME LEADER OF WAR VETERANS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23—(UP)—Alfred J. Kennedy of New York became the first strong candidate for commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, which today officially opened its 39th annual national encampment here.

The four-day convention attracted 20,000 members of the parent organization and the women's auxiliary and affiliated groups.

Past Commander-in-chief Rice W. Means of Denver, Gov. Martin L. Davey and Ohio Commander Charles Barefoot were to speak at a joint session of the veterans and the women's auxiliary today. A military ball will be held tonight. The Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Orphans' Home band was to play a concert today.

The annual parade is scheduled Wednesday and officers will be elected Thursday.

A luncheon in honor of retiring Commander-in-chief Scott Leavitt of Milwaukee and other national officers was given Sunday.

Otto J. Johnson, 62, of Providence, R. I., attending the convention, died in a tourist home, last night of double pneumonia. The body was returned to Providence today.

D. A. McCLELLAND, RETIRED FARMER, IS DEAD AT 73

Daniel A. McClelland, 73, widely known retired Laurelville farmer, died Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at his home. Complications following influenza caused death.

Mr. McClelland was a son of Salem and Margaret Defenbaugh McClelland.

His widow, Lily Alstadt, and a nephew survive.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Laurelville Methodist church, the Rev. L. C. McCandlish officiating. Burial will be in Adelphi cemetery by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

G. D. SHEETS PUT ON COUNTY BOARD REPLACING SMITH

Approval of Dr. G. D. Sheets, of Williamsport, as a member of the county board of public assistance, to succeed E. E. Smith, was announced Monday by Probate Judge C. C. Young.

The appointment was approved by Henry J. Robinson, chief of the department of public welfare, division of public assistance, Columbus.

Mr. Smith resigned as a member of the board when he removed from Circleville to Cambridge, O., his former home.

Other members of the board are Judge Young, Ralph May and Mrs. Erma Stevenson. Meetings of the board are held the third Tuesday of each month.

CITY COURT KEPT BUSY AS POLICE GO INTO ACTION

Three Circleville men were arrested Sunday noon by Officer Fred Fitzpatrick at Pickaway and Logan streets, on charges of gambling.

Officers said those arrested were Carl Kegg, Town street; Robert Good, S. Court street, and Willard Hosler, Logan street. They posted $5 bonds each to report in police court Monday night.

Police said many complaints had been received concerning men gambling near the street intersection. Officer Fitzpatrick said the men were "tossing pennies" when arrested.

Virgil Moss, 18, of Pearl street, was arrested Sunday afternoon on a charge of using fictitious license plates on an auto. Police said he had plates on a Ford roadster issued for a Chevrolet sedan.

Henry R. Martin, 32, of Connellsville, Pa., Mont Greeno, 45, Stoutsville, R. F. D., and Joseph Moore, 28, city, were arrested for intoxication. John Backer, 19, of Cleveland, and Mike Tucker, Springfield, arrested for drunkenness, were ordered out of town. Jim Hinlary, 46, of Marion, Route 6, posted $5 bond to return Monday night for a hearing on an intoxication charge. Roscoe Bailey, 37, E. Mound street, and Arthur Strawser, 54, city, were arrested on drunk and disorderly charges. Mrs. Bessie Boyssell, 40, Darbyville, was awaiting a hearing Monday on a drunk and disorderly charge.

WOMAN, 39, TELLS OF POISON PLOT AGAINST FARMER

AMITE, La., Aug. 23—(UP)—Mrs. Georgia Stevenson Sharkey, 39, pleaded guilty today to charges of poisoning her husband, a prominent St. Helena parish farmer last Aug. 5, the outgrowth of an illicit rural romance.

Judge Hyppolite Mixon accepted Mrs. Sharkey's plea. He will pass sentence within the next two or three days.

Mrs. Sharkey admitted giving her husband, Willie Sharkey, 37, strychnine bought by her youthful lover, 24-year-old Roger Jenkins.

Earlier District Attorney Bolivar Kemp, Jr., had announced the confessions of the bespectacled, quiet-spoken widow and Jenkins. Kemp said the confessions were made when the woman and Jenkins met at the East Baton Rouge parish prison, where the two were held for safekeeping.

Jenkins was not brought into court today, but it was reported that a special session of the grand jury would be called into session "immediately" to consider his charges.

Mussolini's Wife Ill

MRS. HAHN SAYS STATE TAMPERED WITH WITNESSES

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23—(UP)—Allegations by counsel for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 31, charged with the "poison plot" murders of two Cincinnati men, that the state tampered with witnesses were to be heard today by Judge Charles S. Bell.

H. C. Binsinger and Joseph Hoodin, counsel for Mrs. Hahn, asked a court order directing Prosecutor Dudley Outcalt to refrain from instructing witnesses to withhold information from defense lawyers.

They charged that their efforts to prepare a defense for Mrs. Hahn had hampered.

Judge Bell also was to confer with counsel for both sides concerning selection of a toxicologist to examine contents of the stomachs of Jacob Wagner, 78, and George Gsellman, 67, whose deaths prompted the indictments.

RUSSELL S. RADCLIFF DIES AT HOME OF HIS PARENTS

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon in the Rinehart Funeral home, the Rev. Grayson Ferguson officiating, for Russell Stanley Radcliff, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Radcliff, 122 E. Water street. The child died Saturday at 5:45 p. m.

The parents, Russell and Isabelle Heskett Radcliff, and two sisters, Leona May and Sarah Ann, survive.

Burial will be in Jackson township.

FISH FOSSILS FOUND

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., (UP)—Fish fossils believed to be more than 3,000,000 years old have been discovered at a camp in Stone Valley by geology students from Pennsylvania State College. The discovery was reported by Prof. C. A. Bonine, head of the department of geology at Penn State.

The new railroad retirement bill sponsored by Rep. Robert Crosser, Cleveland Democrat, brought thousands of Ohio railmen under a pension system agreed to by the carriers and resulted in the transfer to government pension rolls of all retired employes heretofore receiving annuities from the companies' private pension funds.

OTHERS MAY BE DEAD

Horrible Scene Described By Tragedy Survivor

There are no Pickaway county youths in the Cody, Wyo., area as far as local relief officials know. Dispatches from the scene of the forest fire say that nearly all victims were enrollees from Texas. The local relief office does not, however, have a complete list of assignments of county youths.

CODY, Wyo., Aug. 23—(UP)—

Burned men, some dead, others dying or badly seared, were carried here on burros today, casualties in a fire that has raged three days in the Shoshone national forest.

There were 12 charred bodies in the morgue, lying beside the bodies of two persons killed in weekend accidents. More than 40 burned men were in the three Cody hospitals. Two or three were near death.

The 12th body, brought in from the forest this morning, was burned until even the bones were black beneath the skin.

Others May Be Dead

It was feared that others were dead. Most of the victims arrived here lashed to the backs of burros that were lead to safety through (Continued on Page Eight)

AUTO USED FOR ABDUCTION GOES BACK TO AKRON

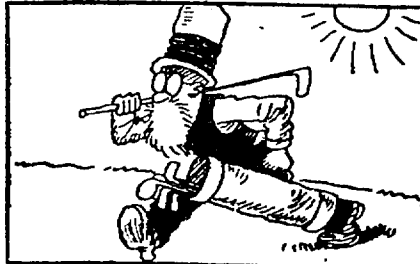

The sheriff's department reported no new developments Monday in the abduction case of George R. Hoffman, Akron, whose car was found abandoned last Friday night in W. High street.

Hoffman obtained his auto Sunday morning. He was abducted on an Akron street, forced to ride to Columbus with three men and robbed of $58 during the trip.

Another abduction was staged by three youthful bandits in Columbus early Sunday. A filling station attendant was taken to Loudenville, 65 miles north of Columbus, then released.

Carl Faust, 1346 North Fifth street, victim of the abduction, was robbed of $30.

Labor Asked to Form Third Party for 1938

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(UP)—The American Federation of Labor and the Committee for Industrial Organization were asked today to unite and form a third political party for the 1938 congressional elections.

The call was made by the National Executive Committee of the Social Democratic Federation, an organization of right wing socialists, who claim to speak for members in 19 states.

"The session of congress just concluded has served to emphasize that there is no power upon which organized labor can depend except itself," the committee said.

DUCE EXPECTED TO SEE GERMANY'S MANEUVERS

BERLIN, Aug. 23—(UP)—Indications seemed growing in official circles today that Premier Benito Mussolini would attend the German army maneuvers in the latter part of September.

The maneuvers will begin on Luenburger Heath and continue towards Pomerania. Mussolini is expected to pass through Berlin on his way to the maneuvers, in which case the city would be lavishly decorated with flags, bunting and lanterns.

SOVIET HOPEFUL FOR SAFETY OF ACE AND AIDES

MOSCOW, Aug. 23—(UP)—Hope that Sigismund Levanovsky and five companions, missing since Aug. 15 on a flight over the North Pole to the United States, was renewed today after faint radio signals were picked up on the wave length of his transmitter.

The signals were identified and the call letters were clear although the nature of the message could not be determined. Encouraged, Soviet stations are broadcasting regularly to Levanovsky it was believed his receiving apparatus is functioning. Plans to search the Arctic wastes for the fliers were pushed.

POINT BARROW, Alaska, Aug. 23—(UP)—Rescue fliers waited near the Arctic circle today for clearing weather to continue the search for six Russian aviators lost ten days ago on a trans-Polar flight from Moscow to the United States.

Poor visibility and a low ceiling was reported over most of the Arctic and northern Alaska area.

MOTIVE SOUGHT FOR MURDER OF CHICAGO MAN, 40

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—(UP)—Police called the widow and sweetheart of Francis Burns, 40, to a coroner's inquest today seeking the reason why he was killed by two men as he walked along the Lake Michigan shore yesterday.

Burns was shot as he walked with Lucille Buehler, 21, who said she had agreed to marry him. She did not know he already was married.

Mrs. Theresa Burns, 40, returned from visiting a sister in Remsen, Ia., and said she could not ascribe a motive for the killing. She was released, but Miss Buehler was held.

Burns and Miss Buehler were walking through a lake-front park discussing their wedding plans when two men emerged from the darkness, Miss Buehler said. One of the men slapped her face and the other shot Burns once through the head. The men fled in an automobile. James Murphy, a transient who was nearby, confirmed Miss Buehler's story.

Continuation of C. C. C. to Give 6,840 Work

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(UP)—The departing congress left in its wake today a series of legislative accomplishments of direct and vital effect on Ohio.

But the adjournment gavel also left hanging several measures which Ohio senators and representatives had sought unsuccessfully to transform into law.

Of prime importance to the Buckeye state were provisions made by congress for dealing with the unemployed problem.

The new $1,500,000,000 relief bill, intended to carry the government through the fiscal year ending next July 1, will provide funds for employing an average of 92,500 Works Progress Administration employees.

W. P. A. Slash Hurts

Ohio, along with all other states, will feel the pinch of government cost-cutting in the WPA program. The 1938 fiscal year expenditures in Ohio, it is estimated, will range between $80,000,000 and $90,000,000 compared with the $138,000,000 spent during the calendar year 1936. The average 1938 employment will represent a reduction of about 31,600 from WPA rolls as of last May.

The three-year extension of the Civilian Conservation Corps will insure employment of approximately 6480 young men and World War veterans in 40 Ohio camps, officials said. Fifteen of the camps have been assigned to soil erosion prevention, eight to drainage work, seven to development and improvement of state forests, four to national forests and six to state park areas.

Five Wrecks Keep Police, Sheriff Busy

One Arrest Results From Series of Accidents During Week-End

Five automobile accidents in which no one was seriously injured, but one arrest was made, were investigated by the sheriff's department and the city police Saturday and Sunday.

Finley Nickell, 28, of Beaver, O., Route 3, was arrested by police at 7 p. m. Saturday. Their report says he failed to stop after his auto struck the parked car of E. B. Goldsberry, S. Scioto street. Goldsberry's auto was parked in front of his home. Nickell was arrested on Huston street.

Autos driven by LeRoy Weisfoot, Briggsdale, O., and Harley Stant, Circleville, Route 3, collided at 8:15 p. m. Saturday at Main and Pickaway streets. The police report says Weisfoot was going west on Main street while Stant was going eastward and making a turn into N. Pickaway street.

The rear end of the auto of Frank Gearhart, 626 N. Court street, was slightly damaged Sunday evening when it was struck by an auto driven by Leo Miller, Jackson, O. Officers said the mishap occurred as Gearhart was turning off Court street into the Ringgold pike.

Cars driven by R. I. Conner, Huntington, W. Va., and Foster Pritchard, Laurelville, Route 3, were involved in a collision on Route 104 about six miles south of Circleville at 8 p. m. Saturday. The sheriff's department reported Pritchard suffered cuts and bruises.

Police said cars driven by Edgar Stevens and L. F. Stout, addresses not learned, were involved in a collision Sunday on S. Washington street.

ACCIDENTS KILL 12 THROUGH OHIO DURING WEEK-END

BY UNITED PRESS
Accidents took the lives of at least 12 persons in Ohio over the week-end.

Leona Edwards, 20, of near Sunbury, died in a Columbus hospital of a crushed chest, fractured skull and broken neck when her automobile went into a ditch four miles south of Galena and caught fire. Cloys Smith of Galea, who was riding with her, received minor injuries.

Miss Edwards was said to have become excited when the car swerved and to have stepped on the accelerator.

Mrs. Tessy Wheeland, 39, of near Sunbury, and Kendall Uray, 14, of Columbus, were injured seriously in an automobile-truck collision near Westerville in which Le Roy Wheeland, 40, her husband, and Mrs. E. E. Meyers, 62 Lithopolis, were killed.

P. C. Archer, 33, was killed at Lorain when his car skidded and struck a tree.

Frank Mayer, 28, was drowned at Cleveland when he fell into Lake Erie while attempting to board a launch.

Robert Sprague, 20, was crushed to death when struck by an automobile at Shelby.

At Cleveland, Mathew O'Hara, 38; Frank Walker, 26, and Miss Mary Mazek, 28, were killed in traffic accidents.

Mrs. Eugene Sarchi, 54, of New York, and Reed Conger, 23, of Washington, Pa., were killed in separate motor accidents near Newark.

Thomas Bailey, 11, of Alliance, was killed when struck by an automobile while crossing a street. His brother, Joseph, 15, was hurt.

TRUCK DAMAGES BRIDGE

One wheel of a truck of the Hartman Cartage Co., Columbus, went through the floor of a bridge on the Orient-Harrisburg road early Monday. Lawrence Young, Columbus, was the driver. The truck was loaded with steel.

Chicago Nurse Slain With Brick

VICTIM of a killer who fled down the fire escape, the name of Miss Anna Kuchta has been added to a long list of such slayings that have terrorized the fringes of Chicago's Loop and South Side for a year. Miss Kuchta, a 19-year-old student nurse, was found dead, her skull crushed with a paving brick, in her second-floor room at the Chicago hospital on the South Side.

100 Suspects Held In Chicago Crimes

CHICAGO, Aug. 23—(UP)—Attacks on four more women and a negro's attempt to date a pretty 19-year-old national beauty contest winner today spurred Chicago's 6,000 police in their search for the ape-like man who murdered and assaulted Anna Kuchta, 19, a student nurse.

Miss Florence Swanson, night superintendent of nurses at Jefferson Park hospital, was slashed by a man who invaded her room while she slept.

Mrs. Edith Reuter, 22, told police she was seized while walking and attacked by two men in an automobile.

Mrs. Ruby Stoekel, 23, reported she was attacked by two men who forced her to accompany them in an automobile.

Mrs. Anna Hollender, 50, a domestic, was beaten by a negro who tried to attack her on a lonely street.

Among more than 100 suspects rounded up by police was a huge negro accused of passing a mug shot of Michaeline Deleau, 19, proclaimed "Miss America" in a Mardi Gras contest at New Orleans three years ago.

Police Notified

Miss Deleau, appearing as "Miss America" at a downtown "art museum," notified police when a negro handed her a note which read:

"I saw you this afternoon. I want to see you again. Please let me see you. I will give you anything you want if I can see you. Just say yes and call this number tonight at 1 o'clock. Drexel 7587. Earl."

Miss Deleau agreed to meet the masquerader half a block from Central police station. She accompanied police to the scene and pointed out a negro who gave him the name as Ovell Jones, 28. Police said he confessed authorship of the mash note. He was held to be viewed by other attack victims.

Mrs. Hollender said she was accosted by a negro near her home. She said she offered him her money but he answered, "I want a woman." He beat her with his (Continued on Page Eight)

CRIST INVENTORY LISTS ESTATE AT NEARLY $103,000

Estate of William E. Crist, Circleville merchant, is listed at $102,944.43 in an inventory and appraisal filed in probate court. The report lists personal goods at $14,774.44, cash $253.54, stocks and securities $7,415.61, accounts receivable $6,000.84, and real estate $74,500. Appraisers were A. L. Wilder, Robert G. Colville and Arthur Barthelmas.

J. A. Ucker, C. C. Heffner and J. D. Hummell, appraisers of the estate of Mrs. Elvina Lathouse, Watt street, list her property at $18,864 of which $17,500 is in real estate.

AMERICAN NEWS WRITER IS NEAR DEATH OF HURTS

International Settlement Scene of Disaster as Airplanes Fight

MANY CORPSES BURIED

U. S. Navy Storeroom Hit By Explosive

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23—(UP)—Two airplane bombs crashed into the heart of the international settlement, spreading death and panic.

One plunged into a teeming crowd in the Nanking road. The other landed on a United States navy storeroom.

Municipal council authorities said officially that 300 were killed and 500 wounded in the Nanking road bombing. Many corpses were still buried in debris from two department stores hit by bomb fragments, and wounded were dying each hour.

Among the wounded were two Americans—Anthony Billingham, New York Times correspondent, of Nashville, Tenn., and Miss Blanche Tenney, born here. Billingham's wounds were most serious and there was fear for his life.

The bomb which struck the navy storeroom, occupied also by the American owned Commercial Press company, plunged through the three floors of the building without exploding and started a small fire that was soon put out.

Fragments Retrieved

Though the bomb did not explode, and wounded no one, it was broken when it landed. U. S. navy authorities gathered fragments from it in hope they could identify its source.

The bomb struck only a few yards from the American consulate general and next door to the temporary British consulate general.

Earlier in the day three Japanese airplanes had bombed Chinese lines dangerously near the United States cruiser Augusta, anchored in the river, and had flown over the cruiser in maneuvering.

Only a few hours before the bombs struck, requiem mass was celebrated for Frederick J. Falgout, young U. S. navy first class seaman, killed when a shell struck the Augusta Friday.

Foreign banks had reopened for "normal" business this morning, and had been operating just three hours after a week's suspension when the bombs dropped.

The Nanking road bomb fell between the big Wingon and Sincere department stores. Billingham was in the Wingon store and was struck by fragments that penetrated an elevator in which he was standing. His arm was cut so badly that it was believed an artery was severed. He suffered also two chest wounds. The elevator dropped sharply to the ground floor from the second floor when the bomb hit. To that fact Billingham may owe his life. Hallett Abend, another New York Times correspondent, had been waiting outside for Billingham beside his car. He found Billingham, picked him up and taking him to the car rushed him to the Country hospital. There he was taken at once to the operating room. But he had lost so much blood, and suffered such shock, that an operation was deferred until tonight.

BOMBS MISS BIG BRITISH STEAMER NEAR MARSEILLES

MARSEILLES, France, Aug. 23

—(UP)—The British freighter Noemijulia reported by wireless today that it had been bombed 200 miles from Marseilles by two airplanes marked with white crosses in the middle of a black circle.

The ship said it had not been damaged and was heading for Port Vendres, France.

The Noemijulia did not indicate the nationality of the planes but the position of the ship indicated they apparently came from Mallorca. They bore the numbers 528 and 529.

Lloyd's register of shipping lists the Noemijulia as of 2,499 tons and London as her home port. It is owned by the Noemijulia Steamship Co.

BITTER SESSION OF SOLONS ENDS IN PARTY SPLIT

Democratic Control Fight Believed Possible As Result of Dispute

REPRISALS HINTED, DENIED

Both Houses Resist Crop
Surplus Control

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23—(UP)—Political warfare for control of the Democratic party was foreseen today as a likely development of the bitter session of congress which scrambled through the wreckage of President Roosevelt's 1937 program Saturday and adjourned.

The New Deal has been weakened on both right and left wings.

A conservative, southern Democratic bloc began to emerge in congress this year, possibly to challenge New Deal forces when the party convention meets in 1940 to name a presidential nominee.

Mr. Roosevelt is believed ready to go to the people in protest against wreckage of his legislative program and possibly to contemplate a special November session of congress to obtain some of his 1937 objectives.

He already is booked for an address here Sept. 17 in which he is expected to continue his counter-attack of conservative opponents begun last week at Roanoke Island, N. C.

Ranks Divided

Congress adjourned Saturday after a bitter session marked by division in New Deal ranks and legislative refusal to enact several major proposals submitted by Mr. Roosevelt.

The senate scuttled Mr. Roosevelt's supreme court reorganization bill. Both houses joined in passive resistance against crop surplus control legislation at this session.

The wage and hours bill designed to make good some of Mr. Roosevelt's campaign promises passed the senate, but was buried in the house under southern Democratic opposition. Bills for reorganization of the executive departments, and for nationally planned control of water power and other resources likewise were lost at this session.

A shifting combination of Republican and conservative Democratic votes in house and senate defeated Mr. Roosevelt this year on a dozen legislative fronts.

But if a special session is called this Autumn it would be primarily to obtain crop surplus control and wages-hours legislation. Mr. Roosevelt has indicated that he has not surrendered on some plan to deal with the supreme court, despite overwhelming rejection of his first proposals.

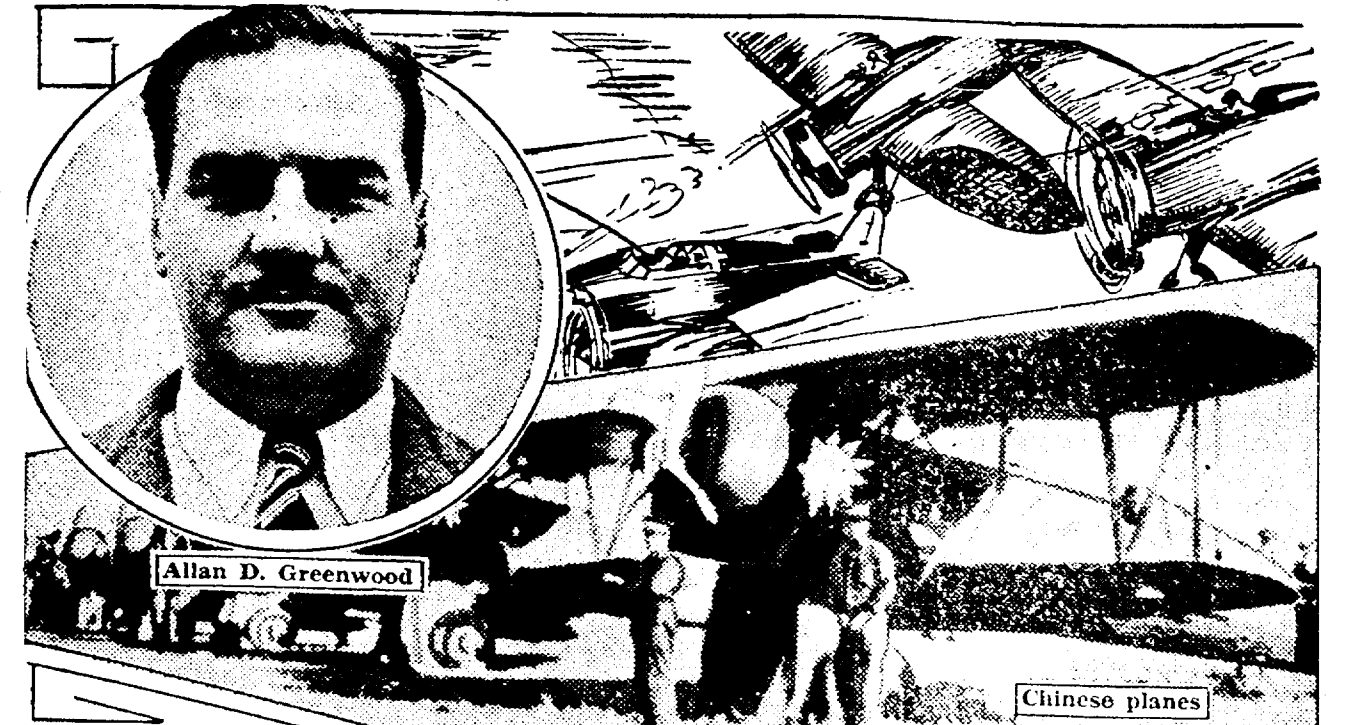

But it is believed the New Deal would prefer to postpone that issue until after the 1938 congressional elections when voters have had an opportunity to pass on the conduct of Democratic senators who opposed the president this year. Some rebels, notably Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D., Ind., Sen. Royal S. Copeland, D., N. Y., Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., and Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney, D., Wyo., already are convinced that the New Deal plans reprisals.

Hopes Diminish

With some of these senators in the center of it, congress adjourned in clamorous political bitterness. Hopes for an early return of Democratic harmony were considerably diminished.

Chairman John D. M. Hamilton of the Republican national committee said as the legislators scattered that New Deal leadership had "failed the people." To that extent he almost duplicated the charge made a day previously by John L. Lewis, chairman of Labor's non-partisan league and spokesman of the Committee for Industrial Organization. Lewis said that this session of congress demonstrated

American-Trained Chinese Pilots Mainstays of China's Air Force

American Chinese flyers with central army in Orient

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 23 — Aerial warfare between Chinese and Japanese has one close observer, here, for 32 of his former pupils are flying in the Chinese army air corps.

Allan D. Greenwood, Oregon state aeronautics inspector, in 1932 trained 34 young Chinese to fly at the Swan Island airport here. All except two returned or went to China and joined the air corps.

Through correspondence with his former pupils, Greenwood knows they are well equipped, flying the latest type of American, German, British and Italian aircraft.

Chinese Good Pilots

"A Chinese makes just as good a pilot as an American," Greenwood explained. "Chinese are deliberate and those I taught were studious. They are without fear."

"I put my class through 1,600 hours of flying and we didn't have the slightest kind of an accident."

It was a Japanese war scare in 1932 that prompted the training of young Chinese flyers here, Greenwood recalls.

"The Shanghai incident in 1932 served to be the incentive," he said. "While the students did not complete their local training until the Shanghai trouble started, the stimulus of the difficulty brought large contributions to the training course from Chinese business men in this country.

"The group called themselves the Chinese Aeronautical association and students came from all parts of the United States and Hawaii. The association was formed in Portland and was financed by Chinese business men on the Pacific coast, who contributed $30,000 for training.

Dedicate Lives

"But before a young Chinese would be accepted for training, he had to sign a pledge dedicating his life to Chinese army aviation and to the interests of China."

After the Chinese had completed their training here they were sent to China in two groups. The first departed in August, 1932, and the second in January, 1933. They have been over there ever since except for John K. Wong and Arthur Chin, formerly of Portland, who trained with the German air corps in 1933.

"Wong and Chin wrote me," Greenwood says, "that their gunnery, bombing and formation flying was on a par with their German associates, but that the Germans excelled in cross-country flying and radio navigation work."

"The pair returned to China and are in the pursuit stationed at Hang Chow."

Airplane Gift

Greenwood disclosed that one of his former students is Mai Euan Lam, brother of a Portland physician. Mai Euan was promoted last year to test pilot for the Chinese air corps and was one of a commission of three officers who came to the United States last autumn and purchased 40 airplanes to present to Chiang Kai-shek on the general's birthday.

Mai Euan, now is active in command of pursuit flying. All now have had five years' military experience.

Also trained here were two Portland Chinese girls, Hazel Lee and Virginia Wong, the Oregon official said. Miss Lee flew with the army in China for two years, but since has been transferred to an administrative post with the Chinese aeronautical library. Miss Wong died of malaria in 1934.

FEED SUPPLIES PROMISED WITH GOOD CORN CROP

A good corn crop in Ohio and several other states is indicated by the August 1 estimates of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics which places the condition of Ohio corn at 80 percent or more of normal except in a few small areas.

The condition of the crop over the whole country is 83.2 percent of normal. Drought damaged corn in a large region from northern Texas to the Canadian border and there is not much chance for much improvement of corn in that area.

Corn prospects are particularly good through Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and parts of Minnesota and Missouri. The average yield for the country this year is expected to be 27.7 bushels per acre, which will be the best yield in the last 13 years.

Continued favorable conditions for corn will assure a plentiful supply of feed on farms this year but farmers in this year's drought section probably will not have feed enough to encourage them to bring livestock numbers back to normal there.

Corn conditions in Ohio on August 1 compared favorably with those on that date in 1935 and are much better than those of 1933, 1934, or 1936. Estimates on corn crop conditions are based on reports from every area made by crop correspondents and sent to Washington crop estimators.

Automobile Workers Discuss Ford Activity

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 23—(UP)—The second annual convention of the United Automobile Workers of America opened today amid bitter factional strife which may affect seriously their next goal—unionization of Henry Ford's 140,000 workers.

Plans for the Ford campaign, only large automobile manufacturer who has not signed a contract with the union, and a review of "the most successful year," predominated early discussion.

The Ford campaign was the subject of several of the 201 resolutions submitted for convention consideration. One proposed that each member be assessed 25 cents a month to finance the drive. On the basis of claimed membership, it would raise $1,025,000 annually. Another would pledge the convention to "all necessary financial support" for the campaign.

President Homer Martin and First Vice President Wyndham Mortimer led two factions split over the question of centralized control.

Mortimer's followers, known as the "unity faction," were prepared to bring the fight into the open immediately by contesting a majority report of the credentials committee which would deny seats to some of the union's crack organizers. They include Lloyd Jones, Detroit, president of the Murray body local and international executive board member, and Roy Reuther, Flint organizer.

ANNE SHIRLEY YOUNG STAR FILMS, MARK

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23—Anne Shirley, golden-haired young film actress, and John Payne, actor, were on honeymoon today.

They were married by a justice of peace at the Biltmore hotel in Montecito, yesterday. The bride's mother attended her.

The 18-year-old New York girl, whose real name is Dawn Evelyn Paris, attained stardom only recently. Her husband is 25.

with an all star cast including James Melton, Patricia Ellis, Hugh Herbert, ZaSu Pitts, Allen Jenkins and Nat Pendleton.

The picture has an exceptionally interesting and well-knit plot for a musical. Harry Sauber has injected countless laughs, glamorous romance and some real thrills.

The story concerns the doings of a wealthy young man, brought up without knowledge of anything useful, whose father suddenly dies and leaves him at the head of a great city department store. He lets the store run itself, while he philanders in other lands, until he is warned by his lawyers that it is fast losing money.

What some of America's aquatic stars say about Camels

SPRINGBOARD ACE. Lovely Jane Fauntz Manske, of Chicago, says: "It's Camels for me! Good digestion is of prime importance to me. Tense competition and all the changes of diet when traveling are liable to upset digestion. But I smoke Camels at meal-times and after and my digestion runs smoothly."

The best of meals tastes better and digests easier when you have an abundant flow of digestive fluids—alkaline digestive fluids. Smoking Camels encourages this flow—helps you enjoy a sense of well-being. Steady smokers say: "Camels set me right!"

HAROLD ("DUTCH") SMITH, Olympic diving champion, would "walk a mile for a Camel!" "I find a great deal of pleasure in Camels," says "Dutch." "Long ago I discovered that smoking a Camel restores my flow of energy after a strenuous meet—gives an invigorating 'lift.'"

THREE-TIME OLYMPIC WINNER in the high-diving event, Dorothy Poynton Hill, of Los Angeles—a steady Camel smoker—says: "I prefer Camels because they don't get on my nerves. And they have such a rich, delicate flavor and never tire my taste."

"PETE" DESJARDINS—another famous diver—speaking: "Divers like a mild cigarette that doesn't upset their nerves. That's why I prefer to smoke Camels."

LENORE NIGHT WINGARD—a champion of champions in speed swimming, comments on smoking: "After an exhausting swim, I get a 'lift' with a Camel."

AQUAPLANE EXPERT. Miss Gloria Wheeden can do hand-stands on an aquaplane. Lunching on the speed boat, she says: "I get so much benefit smoking Camels at meals."

CAMERA BATTLE

ONE amusing tale comes from troubled Peiping. It is said that when a column of Japanese soldiers marched past the compound of the United States Marine Corp, a lot of marines, off duty, climbed atop the wall and began snapping pictures. That did not please a gold-braided Japanese general who halted his car to get out and command that the picture-taking stop.

Naturally, the marines didn't stop. They were on their own wall having a fine time.

The general decided retaliation was called for. He went back to his car, summoned Japanese staff photographers and ordered them to take pictures of the marines and their cameras. The mutual snap-shooting went on for ten minutes, by which time the films on each side probably ran out, giving the general a chance to move on and the marines a chance to seek other amusement.

This may yet turn up as an international incident, though we hardly expect it. Cats may look at kings and probably marines may take pictures of soldiers marching down a main street almost anywhere.

LITTLE NEW CAR

MIDGET cars have been made from time to time and have had fair sales but they have never been able to take the public attention to any great extent from the low-priced cars of standard sizes. A variety is promised for 1938. Orders have been given for dies and materials, and the assembly line is expected to start in September for production of a 1938 model, which will be called the Bantam car. The company about to make it believes that it has a design which will produce a speed of 60 miles an hour and will run up to 60 miles on a gallon of gas.

If these promises can be performed, and if the car is comfortable to ride in, here will be something the world is looking for. Comfort within limits, of course; one does not expect Cadillac smoothness of a bantam.
But there is still a large group of people who, either for pleasure or business, would like something more adaptable than a motorcycle and less expensive than a flivver.
Many will watch with interest to see whether the new chick can fight its way up among the big roosters.

That Arctic Soviet camp on the ice is drifting away from the North Pole, but no faster than Soviet Russia is drifting away from Marxian Socialism.

Breathed a sigh of relief over adjournment of congress, for business now may hit the pros-fear of being scalped, at least until the next possible special session. Chatted with an able farmer who declared he is glad no further farm relief legislation was enacted, for "I'm ashamed to take what I already am get-refuse it." He also somewhat aroused over the more than $11-

Sat on the front porch and chatted with Frank Goff, county juvenile officer, telling him about a woman who banged on the front door at two in the morning and asked for Frank. Told her that Frank lived next door, but in a half hour she was back once more, asking the same questions. Did shoo her away then, for being disturbed at that hour of the morning and right at the most interesting and thrilling part of what at one time would have been dubbed a "dime thriller", but now is generally recognized as diverting literature, is not desirable experience. Frank failed to sympathize, merely remarking: "That happens with me almost every night." Decided, then, to remain in the newspaper business.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

SENATOR BLACK IS "PHENOMENON"

WASHINGTON — Senator Hugo La Fayette Black was once described as "the Tom Walsh of the South."

The characterization was an apt one.
Like the late great crusading Senator from Montana, Black is that rare phenomenon in public life—a politician with convictions and the courage to fight for them.

The slender, boyish-looking Alabamian has been fighting for his convictions all his life. Elected as prosecutor of Jefferson County, Ala., he promptly outraged local politicos by putting an end to a "petty fee" racket which mulcted thousands of dollars annually from unfortunates. On his first day in office, Black dismissed 500 cases of alleged petty offenses, most of them charges of gambling against Negroes who had been arrested on a preceding pay day.

Machine politicians yelled bloody murder.
"You are turning loose criminals," they cried.

Black silenced them with a withering report. "These poor people," he said, were not arrested because they committed crimes, but for boodle. What was wanted from them was not expiation of offenses against society, but the fees that could be wring from their pitiful wages."

This was only a starter. Black next waded into a powerful bootlegging and gambling ring. He broke it up and placed its leaders behind the bars.

Several years later, as a special federal prosecutor in liquor conspiracy cases, he was equally relentless and hard hitting. In one famous case he secured a conviction against Frank W. Boykin, now a member of the House from Mobile. The three-year sentence was later reversed by a higher court on the ground that Boykin's indictment was faulty.

"VOTE FOR BLACK"

Black won a state-wide reputation as a fearless prosecutor and in 1926, at the age of 40, he ran for the seat of the late Senator Oscar Underwood when Underwood voluntarily retired from office. It was a bitter, hard-fought campaign, with money, business and the political machine united against Black.

His opponents were John H. Bankhead, wealthy utility lawyer who later defeated
Senator Tom Heflin, and L. B. Musgrove, wealthy business man. Because Black was generally considered the outsider with little chance of election, Bankhead and Musgrove paid small attention to him and concentrated their fire on one another.

Cannily, Black used this oversight to his own telling advantage.

His two rivals made a practice of holding their meetings on opposite corners. The vehemence with which they berated each other attracted large crowds, which hugely enjoyed the mutual castigation. At the close of these meetings Black would have a wagon drive by bearing sign reading:

"They are both right in what they say about each other. Vote for Black."

Black spent little money in his campaign, compared with the flood that was poured out for his opponents. But he electioneered in every city, town and hamlet, and when the votes were counted he was an easy victor.

orders, in New York, believes that stutters have a kind of personality type. The stutter type of person may not develop into a stutterer, but he has a better chance than others.

One feature of the stutter type that has attracted a great deal of attention is the theory of cerebral dominance. Or, in other words, whether a person is dominantly right or left handed. It is, however, not only right and left handedness that is involved, but right and left eyedness, hearing dominance and foot and leg dominance.

So far as speech is concerned, it is known that in the majority of people the centers for speech are in the left half of the brain. And these people are naturally right handed. The motor fibers for control of the muscles of the arms and legs cross over from the brain centers to the opposite side of the body, so the dominant muscle cells for the right side of the body are in the left half of the brain, too.

In left handed persons presumably this is all changed—the speech centers are in the right half of the brain. And the supposition has been that to try to teach these people right handedness destroys the cerebral balance, with consequent functional disturbance in the play of muscles and speech centers.

THE HAPPIEST HEART

Who drives the horses of the sun
Shall lord it but a day;
Better the lowly deed were done,
And kept the humble way.

Time will not tear it down.

That found the common daylight sweet,
And left to Heaven the rest.

CHAPTER 30

ALMA GREER stirred the soup in the big black kettle with one hand and shook paprika on the saled in a huge, misshapen bowl with the other. "Cecily, take Ted's typewriter off the table. We'll have to use that one."

Cecily said, "I can't!" She held her sides and let out her breath. "Mari, I've never seen you in such a mood!" She went off into gales of laughter again.

Alma said, "Mari, fun's fun but see that you don't take off our eminent bankers before any of their compatriots, they might not understand. And you do look a little like Monsieur LeVene, even if he has a beard and you haven't."

"Oh, goodness, Alma, I haven't had such fun since I can remember. I guess it's getting the weight of my mind, knowing that Mark could handle things so competently. I wish you could have seen him..."

Ted Greer lumbered up the narrow stairs, belowered through the door and opened it. "Is that party still going on?"

Mari, Alma and Cecily said it wasn't, and went off into laughter again.

Ted flung an arm about his wife, dipped a wooden spoon into the soup and demanded to know what the merriment was all about.

"Oh, Ted, you must see Mari take off the bankers..."

"It wasn't really funny, Ted," Mari said. "It was very important and involved hundreds of thousands of francs. And all the papers were signed today. But when it came time for me to sign them, I really felt that I needed only an 'X' instead of my name. I had so little to do with it!"

"It was like a moving picture in which you see an actor do a new serious role in a comic situation. Mark was superb! He rattled off French and pounded his hands on the table and the Frenchmen pounded and shouted 'Non! Non!' until I was terrified that the thing would not go through. It all happened so fast I didn't know what it was all about. But at lunch, Mr. Leland, who is Mark's something or other like an equerry, told me that everything is settled and if the thing doesn't work out financially, I have no responsibility. All I have to do is to okay plans."

"But, Mari, that will mean that it isn't your company. It will belong to other people and you'll only be a figurehead."

"Oh, no! It won't!" she retorted. "I had only to put up my reputation and all that. It will belong to me soon. Wait and see."

Ted shrugged his shoulders but he had his doubts.

"Soup's done, salad's ready. There's a yard and a half of bread and some beautiful old cheese," Alma said.

They'd got to the coffee stage when Mari said, "Heavens! I almost forgot. I'm dancing tonight with Mark and I shall be dressed now. What time is it?"

"A little after 8."

Mari didn't get up. She stirred the pewter spoon in the handle-less green cup on the orange saucer. She stirred it dreamily.

Her eyes swung slowly around the garret studio. They rested on the four lounges in the four corners that served as beds by night. They drank in the canvasses and the easel that were Alma's. There was a pleasant sheen above the smoking lamps, the smoke from their cigarettes. The smell of paint and coffee and verberna, a curious

"Larry's found you a place and servants."

American scent, pervaded the room.

Over their heads the stars gleamed in the water sky and shone through the broad skylight window.

Somewhere out of doors chimed out silvery notes through the night.

Mari leaned her arms on the table. Her heart felt warm, her body was filled with a sense of well being. Her mood was amiable, affectionate toward these friends who, perforce, had to fill so much of her life. It was the Greers' now. It had been the Wolastons the year before. American newspaper people shifted about to various posts on the continent, coming and going out of her life, offering her the only friendships she had.

"I shan't ever want anything but this," she said softly.

Ted opened his mouth to speak; his wife touched his ankle with the toe of her shoe.

"Completely happy?" she said to Mari.

"Of course," Mari answered, "but I wasn't thinking of that. I was thinking that I can't ever be any happier than I am at this moment with you. It's the simplicity of it all. I like simple things. I don't want anything else."

Cecily sighed. "Simple things! Putting an extra carrot into yesterday's stew and making it into today's soup! Having friends turn up from America expecting to be shown Paris and then having to borrow 20 francs to buy a bottle of vin rouge and pretending to be Bohemian! What I'd give for a charge account at the corner grocery store and a shopping fling at a good American department store!"

"That's being simple, too," Cecily said.

"She means that she doesn't care for footmen and emeralds, and town houses and glamor, Cecily," Ted contributed.

"Show me the woman who doesn't!" his wife retorted.

"I can," Mari said, "I'll show her to you in person someday."

"That's being simple, too," Cecily said.

"She means that she doesn't care for footmen and emeralds, and town houses and glamor, Cecily," Ted contributed.

Mark Barat! I wouldn't have a footman around my place. I wouldn't own a town car! I may move into a modest apartment and engage a bonne but that will be all."

Yet less than a fortnight later, Mari Barat had moved into a tiny furnished house that was a bijou in itself.

She had a town car and a chauffeur in violet livery, a maid in violet taffeta, a cook and a butler.

And she had a number of very bad dreams.

That was after Mark Sutherland had made good his threat to become her business manager.

He had, in his own terms, "talked turkey" to her after the papers had been signed with the bankers and the representatives from the manufacturing textile houses.

"Launching yourself on a career like this, Mary, is like launching yourself as a politician. You've got to be set up as a person. I told you I had plans for you. What I haven't got, Larry Holk will have."

Larry Holk was the press agent Mark had engaged for her, his salary to be paid out of the "hundreds of thousands of francs."

"But, Mark, I haven't time for me. I have architects and decorators and an enlarged staff to engage. I'm not important to it."

"You're the works!" he retorted. "Now then, Larry will tell you about the interviews, the receptions and all the rest that he has arranged. By the way, you can't receive in that pension. Larry's found you a place and servants. He'll tell you about your clothes."

"No one will tell me about clothes, mine or anyone else's," she retorted firmly.

"All right, then we'll talk about people. You've got to cut the wrong people and know the right ones. Next month, you'll meet me in London. My sister Ellen, who is the Viscountess Verlainne, is expecting you for a week."

Dinner Stories

A group of gossips were telling tall stories. At last came a veteran's turn.

"Well," he said, "I once drove a ball — accidentally, of course — through a cottage window. The ball knocked over an oil lamp, and the place caught fire."

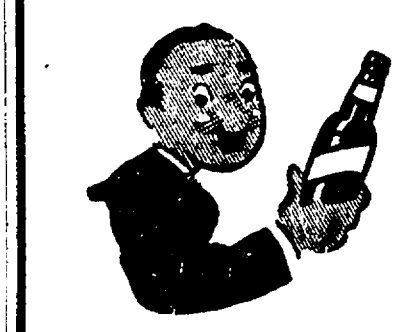

"What did you do then?" asked his friends.

"Oh," said the veteran, "I immediately teed another ball, took careful aim, and hit the fire alarm box on the next corner. That brought out the fire department before any damage was done."

Gladys Steenrod and Richard Robinson Wed

Home in Columbus
Scene of Vows
Saturday

Saturday at high noon, Miss Gladys Steenrod, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Steenrod, of 1871 Summit street, Columbus, became the bride of Mr. Richard Robinson, son of Mrs. C. B. Robinson, of S. Scioto street.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, in the presence of about 30 relatives and friends, the Rev. W. R. Walker of the Indianapolis Church of Christ officiating.

Miss Steenrod chose for her wedding a gown of white lace. She carried a white prayer book with shower arrangement of white flowers.

Miss Billy Steenrod, her sister, gowned in aquamarine organza, served as bridesmaid. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses. Arthur Steele acted as best man for Mr. Robinson.

The new Mrs. Robinson is a graduate of Ohio State university hospital where she has been employed as supervisor for the last four years. Before this she was a member of the staff of Berger hospital for several years. Mr. Robinson, who is a graduate of Circleville high school, is associated with the Third National Bank.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given for the wedding party at the Steenrod home after which the bride and bridegroom left for a trip to North Carolina and the Great Smoky mountains. On their return they will make their home in Circleville.

PICKING THE RIGHT

NO HAND is more puzzling to the average player, from a bidding standpoint, than one of only moderate strength containing two "non touching" biddable four-card suits—such as spades and diamonds or hearts and clubs. His problem is which to call first. Of course, if the suits had been touching, he could call the higher without any worries, but when they are separated, he has a job to find a fit in the cheapest way. In such a hand there is always a doubleton in one suit and a trebleton in the other. A simple rule followed by most experts is to bid the suit immediately below the doubleton, as the latter is the one in which the partner is likely to have length and make his response, whereupon the other suit can be shown.

MORE THAN 10,000 ATTEND MOUNT OF PRAISE MEETINGS SUNDAY

TABERNACLE FILLED DURING MANY SESSIONS

Young People Pay Debt On Their Structure, Plan New Equipment

THREE ARE ORDAINED

882 Pounds Of Meat Used During Week-end

Mount of Praise officials estimated at least 10,000 persons attended various sessions of the camp meeting of the Churches of Christ in Christian Union of Ohio, E. Ohio street, Sunday.

Throughout the afternoon and evening programs the tabernacle was filled, all benches at the rear of the huge building were in use and many persons stood about the building.

Cool weather, ideal for traveling, boosted the crowd for the first Sunday of the camp meeting. Between 6 a. m. and noon about 1,000 cars entered the camp grounds.

Many Tents Added

Additional space added to the grounds this year made parking more convenient and brought an increase in the number of tents. There are about 50 tents on the grounds this year. All dormitories have been filled. Officials estimated 1,200 persons are living on the grounds while many more are residing in private homes.

Announcement was made Sunday that the young people have paid the debt on their tabernacle on the grounds and contemplate construction of a large dormitory next year that will be equipped with furnished rooms.

Three persons were ordained as pastors Sunday morning at services. They were Mrs. Clara Akins, Leesburg, O.; Ralph Dillard and A. E. Halbert, both of Milford Center. Members of the ordination committee are the Revs. G. W. Smith and O. L. Ferguson, city; J. W. Sylvester, Cincinnati; G. C. Johnson, Columbus, and A. E. Keaton, Chillicothe.

Pastor, 14, Present
The youngest pastor on the grounds is Morton Dorsey, 14, of Winchester, and the oldest, the Rev. C. J. Ferneau, 84, of Cincinnati.

The Rev. Mr. Ferguson, camp superintendent, reported 882 pounds of meat used in the restaurant Saturday and Sunday. Food consumed Sunday included 35½ dozens of doughnuts, 93 dozens loaves of bread, 237 dozens buns, 10 dozen pies, 105 gallons of soup, 1,540 half pints of milk and orangeade, 108 quarts of milk, seven bushels of potatoes, 279 dozen ice cream bars, 45 gallons of bulk ice cream, and six dozens of eggs were used for noodles.

Restaurant workers said a steady line of persons passed through the building from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m.

Evangelists Listed
The three evangelists who will preach for the services this week are the Rev. Charles L. Slater, Pasadena, Cal.; the Rev. Bona Fleming, Ashland, Ky., and the Rev. Paul Rees, Kansas City, Mo.

The Rev. Mr. Fleming will preach Monday at the service at 8:15 p. m.

Throughout the remainder of the week the following schedule will be followed daily: rising bell, 6 a. m.; prayer and praise service, 7 a. m.; missionary service, 8 a. m.; breakfast, 9 a. m.; song service, 10:30 a. m. and preaching, 11 a. m.

Children's meeting, 1 p. m.; song service, 2 p. m.; preaching, 2:30 p. m., dinner, 4 p. m.

Young people's meeting, 6 p. m.; platform service, 6 p. m.; song service, 7:30 p. m., and evangelist service, 8:15 p. m.

Saturday has been designated as Missionary Day and officials hope to have missionaries from many fields for the service.

The camp meeting programs are open to all interested persons.

POSSESSION OF RACCOONS COSTS VIRGIL COSSIN, 40

Two hearings were conducted Monday morning by H. O. Eveland, justice of peace.

Virgil Cossin, 40, Commercial Point, was fined $25 and costs and $10 and costs on two charges of illegal possession of two raccoons. Cossin paid both fines. He was arrested by Clarence Francis, county game officer.

The raccoons were given to the local sportsmen's association and released.

Alva Swank, 28, Darbyville, was fined $10 and costs on a drunk and disorderly charge and committed to the county jail.

CHARRED BODIES REMOVED FROM BURNING FOREST

C. C. C. Workers and Others Trapped in Shoshone Region Near Cody

billowing clouds of smoke. Some of the animals fell dead of suffocation on the way.

Doctors and nurses sped here from as far as Billings, Mont., 125 miles away. Two carloads of nurses arrived last night.

A force of 700 men, most of them from a CCC camp, was battling the fire in the virgin timberlands. There had been no time to check the roll for the missing.

The fire had charred 2,000 acres in a rugged, uninhabited area 16 miles from Yellowstone National park. Those burned were trapped in inflammable timber and brush by shifting winds.

The worst disaster occurred Saturday when a force of 50 workers was trapped in the Black Water rim rock. Most of the bodies did not reach here, 35 miles southeast of the scene, until last night.

Identification Gone
A few bodies were nearly consumed and the only hope of identifying them was in finding locker keys, jewelry or trinkets in the ashes of clothing that clung to their forms.

In the trapped party were 40 CCC enrollees from the Thermopole camp; nine bureau of public roads employees and Earl Davis, roads bureau foreman.

They were digging fire lanes ahead of the advancing blaze when a sudden gust of wind sent fire whistling through the tops of pine trees, igniting the area on all sides.

Davis ordered the men to seek safety at the rocky base of the mountain, and to lie still under the boulders.

Several youths became terrified and dashed headlong into the fire, Davis said. Each time one youth ran, another attempted to follow him.

One youth who survived the dash lay in a hospital today and described with blackened lips a parade through fire.

Clothes Burned Off
"I saw the clothes of the man ahead of me drop off piece by piece," he said. "He walked on and I could see big patches of steaming flesh hanging from jagged twigs sticking out of the underbrush. His hair had been burned away and he plodded on slowly, gasping for fresh air."

"It was the worst sight I ever hope to see. We would look up and see a solid mass of flame eating its way through the tops of the trees. We had to watch the ground and the tree tops both to keep from falling over a smouldering log or having a burning limb fall on us."

"At last we came to a small clearing which already had been burned over. We piled seven bodies of men who had died side by side on the black ground. They had been picked up by men who hadn't dreamed of getting out of the inferno alive themselves."

He said there were "others back there too; I know we didn't get to carry all of them out."

Forest service authorities said five of the dead had been identified as Harold Rogers, CCC enrollee of George, Tex.; James Sabir, forestry service foreman of Hyattsville, Wyo.; Rex Hale, address not learned, a junior assistant technician of the forestry service; Bill Lee, bureau of public roads employee, Alfred Clayton, ranger, and Roy Bevin, CCC enrollee of Smithville, Tex.

Passes out of the forest were made nearly impassable by the clouds of smoke. Rescue workers, attempting to move bodies, were choked and blinded. When a burro fell with its gristly load, the dead or injured man would be moved to another animal and they would trudge on.

Hospitals Filled
There were three hospitals in Cody and all were crowded to capacity.

Most of the CCC enrollees came from Texas. One of them, Sam Van Arsdale, who was brought to the hospital suffering major burns, said he and a Mexican companion had burrowed under moist earth to escape the fire that was suddenly swept in their direction. The wind would fan the fire on faster than a man could run through the brush.

POLICEMEN BUSY
Seven police officers in addition to members of the highway patrol worked in shifts Sunday to handle traffic at the Mount of Praise.

Local officers who worked at the grounds were Chief William McCrady, Alva Shastent, Carl McCliff, George Green, Harry Wilson, and Charles Mumaw.

of the proprietor of a German bookshop and circulating library, was killed. Miss Valeria Glasser, a Pole, and Alfred Brunner, Swiss representative of a chemical company, were wounded.

The concussion of the Nanking road bomb was so terrific that it stopped all clocks in the area.

The storehouse bomb again endangered American navy lives and properties. But it was the Nanking road bomb that struck terror into Shanghai and brought back vivid memory of the horrible bombing of August 14 in which more than 1,000 people were killed by one bomb alone and whose total casualties never will be known.

Nor may the toll of today's Nanking road bomb ever be known, because many wounded were treated in homes or offices and not reported to police, and the dead carted away in trucks.

At about the time of the bombing, Miss Josephine "Dodie" Hutton, British dancer born in Shanghai, died at the Country hospital—where Correspondent Billingham was taken—of wounds she received in the terrible August 14 bombing of the palace and Cathay hotel area.

Japanese airplanes bombed Chinese in the North railroad station area of Shanghai this afternoon while Japanese warships bombarded Pootung on the other side of the river. One destroyer moored at a Hongkew dock and fired point blank into the Chinese line across the river.

Flames from new fires in the Japanese Hongkew section leaped up toward dark.

60,000 Japs on Hand
Foreign military experts estimated as high as 60,000 the number of Japanese troops who, reaching the mouth of the river, effected landings at half a dozen points, established field headquarters at Wenchaoang, railroad station and unloading munitions, artillery and general supplies.

The Japanese troops, brought to reinforce the navy men fighting here, were busy for the present in consolidating their positions, organizing for a drive in which they hoped to trap thousands of the Chinese regulars who were resisting fiercely their effort to make their positions secure.

But the horror of the Nanking road bomb overshadowed all military developments.

Police Chief John Prendergast and Detective Chief John L. Sullivan took personal charge and ordered their entire forces to hunt up sex crime suspects after Miss Kuchta was slain in her hospital room.

Miss Kuchta had gone to her room for a two-hour rest. She was found by her roommate, Miss Florence Palmowski, who saw a man climbing out a window to the fire escape.

Other Deaths Recalled
Three other similar deaths have been recorded during the last two years. Mrs. Lillian Guild, 60, was killed in her Y.M.C.A. hotel room. Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle was beaten to death in her hotel room by an assailant who scribbled in lipstick on the dressing table mirror, "Beware, Black Legion." Mrs. Louise Trammell was killed in her hotel room.

In almost every instance the attacker entered through a window from a fire escape or adjoining building. Increasing frequency of the crimes since Mrs. Rose London was beaten with a brick, assaulted and robbed in a downtown hotel room in October, 1935, aroused a public clamor for swift action.

Miss Virginia Austin was assaulted similarly in another hotel a week ago last night.

Mrs. Willard Cornwell, president of the Chicago Women's club, led a protest movement with the declaration:

"When a woman cannot register safely at a reputable hotel, when she is not safe to walk the streets, then something is wrong somewhere."

A group of business men said they would confer with Mayor Edward J. Kelly on measures to halt the attacks.

NEW YORKER MAY BECOME LEADER OF WAR VETERANS

COLUMBUS, Aug. 23.—(UP)—Alfred J. Kennedy of New York became the first strong candidate for commander-in-chief of the United Spanish War Veterans, which today officially opened its 39th annual national encampment here.

The four-day convention attracted 20,000 members of the parent organization and the women's auxiliary and affiliated groups.

Past Commander-in-chief Rice W. Means of Denver, Gov. Martin L. Davey and Ohio Commander Charles Barefoot were to speak at a joint session of the veterans and the women's auxiliary today.

A military ball will be held tonight. The Ohio Soldiers & Sailors Orphan's Home band was to play a concert today.

The annual parade is scheduled Wednesday and officers will be elected Thursday.

A luncheon in honor of retiring Commander-in-chief Scott Leavitt of Milwaukee and other national officers was given Sunday.

Otto J. Johnson, 62, of Providence, R. I., attending the convention, died in a tourist home, last night of double pneumonia. The body was returned to Providence today.

D. A. McCLELLAND, RETIRED FARMER, IS DEAD AT 73

Daniel A. McClelland, 73, widely known retired Laurelville farmer, died Saturday at 7:30 p. m. at his home. Complications following influenza caused death.

Mr. McClelland was a son of Salem and Margaret Defenbaugh McClelland.

His widow, Lily Alstaid, and a nephew survive.

The funeral will be Tuesday at 2 p. m. at the Laurelville Methodist church, the Rev. L. C. McCandlish officiating. Burial will be in Adelphi cemetery by H. E. Defenbaugh and Son.

MRS. HAHN SAYS STATE TAMPERED WITH WITNESSES

CINCINNATI, Aug. 23.—(UP)—Allegations by counsel for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, 31, charged with the "poison plot" murders of two Cincinnati men, that the state tampered with witnesses were to be heard today by Judge Charles S. Bell.

H. C. Bolsinger and Joseph Hoodin, counsel for Mrs. Hahn, asked a court order directing Prosecutor Dudley Outcalt to refrain from instructing witnesses to withhold information from defense lawyers.

They charged that their efforts to prepare a defense for Mrs. Hahn had hampered.

Judge Bell also was to confer with counsel for both sides concerning selection of a toxicologist to examine contents of the stomachs of Jacob Wagner, 78, and George Gsellman, 67, whose deaths prompted the indictments.
